Staging Almost Defeats "Entertainer"

"ENTERTAINER:" In one of those roles every actor yearns to play, McCarter has Robert Pestene, as Archie Rice "The Entertainer."

News Of The THEATRES

The McCarter Theatre Company's production of 'The Entertainer,' which opened last Thursday and continues through this weekend, is likely to prove more fascinating to the student of theatrical techniques and history than entertaining to the casual theater-goer.

Written by John Osborne--one of England's 'angry young men' of the 1950's, whose earlier play 'Look Back in Anger' gave that group its name--'The Entertainer' might be described as a cross between 'Death of a Salesman' and 'The Homecoming' with evident traces of Brecht. But it is not as strong as Miller's play, not as witty as Pinter's and the Osborne attempt to interlard a straight play with vaudeville turns does not work as well for him as the same sort of thing did for Brecht.

'The Entertainer' is a slice-of-life play, and the life sliced into is that of an English show-business family: the grandfather, Billy Rice, who was good in his day; the father, Archie Rice, 'The Entertainer' of the title, who is headed for disaster thanks to his drinking, womanizing, lack of talent, and the decline of the music hall business; his drinking daughter, Jean; his drinking son, Frank; and his drinking second wife, Phoebe. Osborne tried to enlarge and update a rather small, conventional, family drama by interspersing those music hall song-and-joke numbers, in which Archie plays direct to the audience. This, as we recall, worked well in the film version starring Laurence Olivier, and presumably in the original London stage version also starring Olivier.

But as staged at McCarter, the device nearly destroys the play. In order to give Archie a Down Front stage for his vaudeville turns, the designer has moved the actual play setting Up Back, with the result that the vaudeville is embarrassingly big and the play, small to begin with, becomes smaller still; not only small in dramatic terms but at times actually hard to hear. And watching it across ten feet of wasted prime stage space one even gets the illusion that it is hard to see.

An Archie who was hypnotically charming might have made us oblivious to this physical problem, but Robert Pestene wasn't and didn't. One never knows how to distribute responsibility for a performance so lacking in subtlety and shading, but

Measure for Measure
a tasty comedy by william Shakespeare

"YOU DO WASTE YOUR WORDS!" Thus, harshly, does the Duke Vincentio (Robert Schmon) address the pleas of Isabella (Alisa Matlovsky, left) and Marlane (Imee Marcos, right). They're in "Measure for Measure", a revival of Shakespeare's comedy by Theatre Intime.

"It's hit entertainment, and maybe even memorable entertainment!"

presumably Director Carl Weber liked the Pastene interpretation.

But there are highly rewarding elements in Mr. Weber's production. McCarter's one-man resident company, I.M. Hobson, turns in another perfect performance as the grandfather. For students and aficionados of acting, Hobson alone is worth the modest-by-Broadway-standards price of admission to 'The Entertainer.' He is surely one of the best actors in the country and we are lucky to be seeing so much of him.

Highly effective in a less prominent role is Randal Chicoine—pronounced 'sha-quinn,' says the program, and we pass that information along because this young actor deserves to be talked about and to have his name said right. As the son, Frank, he smiles engagingly through drunken family squabbles, and leaves the pathos of his predicament to the audience's imagination.

Barbara Tarbuck and Alice Drummond as, respectively, Jean and Phoebe, are fine in their rather conventional roles, but the staging hurts them more than the other characters because they have to do a good deal of small-talking in a setting that really lends itself only to the belted-out line.

We were delighted with Robert U. Taylor's old-fashioned theater curtain and the promise of seeing a play done on a proscenium stage until we realized the price that had to be paid for moving the action so far Up Back.

But there is much life in 'The Entertainer' and many in the opening night audience were both moved and entertained.

The River's Edge announces a new attraction . . . river-view dining and dancing in the warm, intimate setting of THE CLUB on Wednesday and Thursday evenings — to the dance music of Chic Corvan and his Continentals. Dining also in the colorful, candlelit Garden Room (from which you can stroll into THE CLUB for a fox trot between courses and after dinner).

On Friday and Saturday, dancing as usual to two different combos—dinner-dancing to the Continentals in the spacious River Room, while Tony Inverso and his lively Club Combo set the before-and-after-dinner beat in THE CLUB.

And on Sundays — early dinner-dancing in the River Room to the music of the Continentals (while The Garden continues to serve those guests who would rather cha-lhan-cha-cha).

Intime's research has turned up a 19th-century critic who castigated the play as presenting, 'without disguise or extenuation, a world of moral license and corruption,' and 20th-century scholars who call it 'the most Christian of all allegories.' Take your pick.

Daniel Berkowitz is directing. He points out that the play is often directed as a tragedy, but he adds, 'I think Shakespeare knew what he was doing when he called it a comedy.'

'CAROUSEL'

Pre-Christmas. This year's
P.J.&B musical will be the Rodgers and Hammerstein hit, 'Carousel,' written by the two-man team scarcely two years after their first great hit, 'Oklahoma!' So it's fitting that P.J.&B. should present it just one year after the 1972
production of 'Oklahoma!'

'Carousel' will play
McCarters starting Thursday, December 6 and continuing that Friday and Saturday with matinees both Saturday and Sunday.

Milton Lyon, who has missed only one P.J.&B. show as director, will be directing again. He's rehearsing a cast in the familiar 'Carousel'
songs, including 'If I Loved
You,' 'June is Bustin' Out All Over,' 'This Was a Real Nice Clambake' and 'You'll Never Walk Alone.'

Real old-timers will recall that it was just 20 years ago that Princeton High gave 'Carousel' its first secondary-school production. Thomas

The school teachers are left to fight for their livelihood and reputations aided by Karen's fiancé, Joseph Cardin (Tony Gavelle).

The play, directed by Rik Johnson and associate director Yvonne Guzman, examines the amount of intolerance which builds with the growth of a lie and the proportions of tragedy which can be reached as a result.

TEACHER JOINS STAFF

At Creative Theatre, A specialist in mime, improvisation and the creation and use in theatre of giant puppets has joined the teaching staff of Creative Theatre Unlimited. She is Jane ffitch, a native of Wales, who has toured with the largest children's theatre company in England and has taught drama and served as drama advisor for the schools of the county of Sussex (England).

At present, Ms. ffitch is resident actress with the Learning Theatre, a children's company based in Paterson. For Creative Theatre, she will work with the Advanced Production Company which will make its debut in late January with an offering of African folk-tales and primitive poetry. Students are in fourth grade through high school. Their work will focus on ensemble production, mood, movement and the use of giant puppets as members of the cast.

Organizations interested in booking performances of this production may call Sharon Theatre Unlimited, at 924-1610.

TWO CLASSICS

For Children. "Little Red Riding Hood" and Hans Christian Anderson's "The Snow Queen" are being offered as an hour-long double bill to organizations interested in presenting theatre for young audiences.

The production is under the aegis of Street Theatre, and will be available for bookings between February 14 and March 14. Street Theatre provides lights, sound and scenery, the sponsoring organization provides the space. The plays are suitable for children in grades kindergarten through five. Write Debbie Bellow, 36 Stanley Auditions....

"Slow Dance on the Killing Ground" and "The American Dream" are the spring productions for Theatre Intime and auditions will be held next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Murray Theatre.

William Hanley's "Slow Dance" will be produced February 7, 8, 9 and 14, 15 and 16 and Edward Albee's contemporary classic, "The American Dream" March 14, 15 and 16 and March 21, 22 and 23.

There are four female and four male roles including a black man and a middle-aged man.

Auditioners should come prepared with a five-minute piece which need not be from either of the plays. Theatre Intime asks that auditioners sign up on the sheet posted in Murray's lobby, or call 452-8181.

Avenue, Princeton (921-8826) for details.

"Little Red Riding Hood" is a version by Eugene Schwartz, adapted by George Shal. Liz Rothberg will direct for Street Theatre.

"The Snow Queen" has been adapted by Michael Leech. It will be directed by Debbie Bellow.

HE'S VERSATILE

Holder to Perform. Geoffrey Holder, dancer, will perform next Wednesday, November 28, at 8:30 p.m. in the Kirby Arts Center of the Lawrenceville School. The public is invited and there is no charge.

Familiar to TV watchers as the "un-cola man," and as the villain in the James Bond film, "Live and Let Die," Holder has had a varied career in the performing arts. He is credited with popularizing Caribbean dances in this country and with his group has appeared at Jacob's Pillow, the Spoleto Festival of Two Worlds and at other dance centers.

As an actor he has appeared in "Waiting for Godot" and Shakespeare and as a painter, has exhibited in many galleries. He received a Guggenheim Fellowship in painting in 1957 and did a 30 foot mural for the Trinidad Hilton.

KIDS! KIDS!

MUSIC In Princeton

GENESIS

With Mellotron. Genesis, the English rock group, will give a pair of shows this Saturday in Alexander Hall—8 and 11 p.m. The 8 p.m. show is sold out, but tickets are on sale at McCarter Theatre for the latter of the two.

McCarter's fall season of pop concerts will end Friday, November 30, when the Mahavishnu Orchestra, John McLaughlin and Chick Corea and his band, play Dillon Gym.

Genesis has five musicians, four of whom just sit (and play, obviously). The lone standee is Peter Gabriel, lead singer, who has been called 'a combination of Marcel Marceau and Alice Cooper.' He plays flute and tambourine, too.

Tony Banks is on keyboards and mellotron, Phil Collins on drums, Mike Rutherford and Steve Hackett on guitars and bass.

INTO THE OVEN!

'Hansel and Gretel.' The fuel shortage being what it is, why not toss Hansel and Gretel onto the fire and into the oven? Logical enough, if you're a witch, but it all comes out differently, as everybody knows who knows 'Hansel and Gretel.'

The Humperdink favorite, a favorite also with the Princeton Opera Association, will be sung twice this Friday at the War Memorial in Trenton, as a Thanksgiving treat for young and old.

Performances will be at 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m., with tickets for sale at the door—$2 for children, $3 for adults. The beneficiary of these performances will be the Allergy Foundation of America and Governor William T. Cahill has obligingly proclaimed Thanksgiving week as New Jersey Allergy Week.

In the role of the witch, once again, the Princeton Opera Association will have Virginia Cole, whose non-scary interpretation of the witch as a sort of near-sighted, threadbare soul trying to get along in the world, always brings a nice smile to the audience.

Jean Thomas, soloist at Nassau Presbyterian Church, will sing Gretel. Marthe Rowen, a Princeton University student, will be Hansel. Nancy Jackson will be the mother and John Woodward, the father. Selma Ehrlich will be the Dew Fairy and Vickey Casey, the Sandman.

The angel scene will be danced by members of the Princeton Regional Ballet Company. Igor Chichagov is directing the music, Renita D'Ippolito is artistic director and Patricia Harding, the producer.

"BROTHER, COME AND DANCE WITH ME!" Hansel and Gretel in a pre-gingerbread moment from the Humperdink opera. It's due for a benefit performance (allergy research) this Friday afternoon at the War Memorial in Trenton. Jean Thomas (left) is Gretel, Marthe Rowan is Hansel.

alto-saxophonist, will conduct an 18-piece jazz orchestra in a free concert sponsored by the Princeton University Afro-American Studies Program in Alexander Hall on Monday, December 3, at 8 p.m. Mr. Carter is spending the current semester at Princeton as Visiting Lecturer in the Council of the Humanities and Humanities and the Afro-American Studies Program.

For this concert, Mr. Carter has gathered an all-star big band. He is also writing, especially for this concert, an extended jazz composition which will have its premiere performance.

Among the leading instrumentalists Mr. Carter will feature in this concert are Hank Jones, piano; George Duvivier, bass; Bobby Rosengarden, drums; Joe Newman, trumpet; Budd Johnson and Billy Mitchell, saxophones.

Mr. Carter is recognized by musicians, fans and critics alike as one of the most influential figures in the history of jazz. His career includes associations with almost every major jazz player. Born in New York, he first came to prominence in the late 20s with the bands of Horace and Fletcher Henderson, both as alto-saxophonist and as arranger. His style of arranging along with that of Don Redman formed the basis of much of the swing era. He is particularly famous for his writing for saxophones.

CONCERT AT PDS

Set for December 6, Princeton Day School's music department will present its first winter concert on Thursday, December 6 at 8:30 p.m. in the school's theater.

Madrigal Singers and the Glee Club will perform.

On the first half of the program, the Madrigal Singers will present a group of selections for the Christmas season by Praetorius, Hassler, Poulenc and others. On the second half, the Glee Club will sing 'O Come Emmanuel' by Kodaly, and the Mass No. 2 in G by Schubert. The Mass, composed by Schubert in 1815 when he was in his eighteenth year, will be accompanied by a small string orchestra.

Soloists will be Wendy Cohen, Julie Sly, James Wittke and Elliott Pilshaw, all students at PDS. Frank Jacobson, head of the PDS music department, will conduct. The public is invited, admission free.

CHAMBER ENSEMBLE SET

For Bristol Chapel. The Westminster Choir College Collegium Musicum will present a program of music from the 16th century Franco-Flemish school on Monday, December 3, at 8 p.m. in the college's Bristol Chapel.

The Collegium is a chamber ensemble of 15 singers and instrumentalists which specializes in the performance of Renaissance and early Baroque music. It is conducted by Assistant Professor of Music Education Frances Poe.

The program of Franco-Flemish music will include a performance of Josquin's 'Missa Pange lingua,' instrumentally performed Renaissance dances, and chansons by Janequin, Certon, and Costeley.

RECITAL AT SEMINARY

'Songs of Travel' on Program. Bruce Beck will give a vocal recital Friday, November 30, at 7:30 p.m., in the Campus Center Auditorium of Princeton Seminary. The program is open to the public without charge.

His program is in tribute to Ralph Vaughn Williams, whose centennial was celebrated last year. From Williams' vast collection of songs, Mr. Beck has chosen to present, in its entirety, the 'Songs of Travel' cycle, considered by many the finest in the English repertoire.

Also included are several of the composer's art songs, as well as contemporary compositions by John Duke and Norman della Joia. Accompanying him on the piano will be Mary Sweazey.

Mr. Beck, a Senior in the Master of Divinity program at Princeton Seminary, is a native of Kentucky. Mrs. Sweazey, also a Kentuckian, is the wife of the Rev. Dr. George E. Sweazey, Francis Landey Patton Professor of Homiletics in the Seminary.

On the way, they journey along arteries like vast, bubbling aquariums, and into a brain which resembles an eerie forest laced with green and blue cobwebs.

mincing its language or sexual descriptions. But there is no hard-core material and many a more-much more-violent and sexually promiscuous film in the last few months has not been so rated.

Basically, the film is a variation of Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice involving a young bourgeois couple who tumble headlong into the sexual revolution when he converts the family business—a seldom patronized bookshop—into a chi-chi sex store featuring everything from not too spicy Victorian novels to leather harnesses.

The film goes beyond the sex shop, however, to concentrate on how the young couple react to their new-found sexual freedoms. The wife, feeling threatened, withdraws; the husband lets go to the extent he is physically incapable of keeping up. Hurt by their separate reactions, the couple tear at each other, only to come back together when each realizes they need each other to be satisfied.

Call it a cop-out if you will, but they end up with a better grasp of themselves and a more realistic view of the tangled sexual world we live in. The film indicates somewhat reassuringly that even the French are as hesitant as we when it comes to nitty-gritty copulation.

Parts of the film are quite amusing. There's a great bit of Madison Avenue huckstering on how to sell chastity belts; some lovely moments when a happy hooker autographs her latest book of revelations and the local ladies of the evening take exception, and a truly drooly performance by Beatrice Romand as a hip salesgirl who handles her duties in the sex shop as if she were behind the cosmetics counter at Macy's.

PRINCE

The Way We Were is a period piece that covers the mid '30's through the early '50's with a socko performance by Barbra Streisand and by BRobert MRedford for the ladies. When Barbra is on the screen the film comes alive. Her talent, huge already, seems to grow with every succeeding role.

The early period scenes are funny and evocative. Miss Streisand, determined, humorless, political activist and supporter of good causes, meets Redford in college in the mid '30's. Redford is the top campus athlete, blond, talented and has a roadster. Barbra calls him "America the Beautiful."

The movie, adopted from a novel by Arthur Laurents, falters when it follows the couple, now married, to post-war Hollywood. Redford, a talented writer, has sold out for commercial but second-rate success. Continuing to fight fascism, Barbra becomes a target of a House Un-American Activities Committee's investigation.

As a result, "The Way We Were" is one of the few films to exploit the Red scare of the early 50's engineered by Joe McCarthy, but as a plot device it doesn't come off. In short, the first half of the film has some historical and nostalgic value but the latter part is a sellout.

IT'S NEW To Us

RANGE OF ART VARIED

At Artisan. At the Artisan a hanging planter is next to a painting, which is near a fry pan and several copper sculptures. Shirle Claman, the owner-director, says they are all well-designed art forms by master craftsmen and therefore the gallery does not discriminate or separate them in its display.

While the range of art is varied from the functional to the decorative, all art pieces are original—either one of a kind or part of a limited edition.

Beginning with some of the functional, we admired the flameware by the Libows of New Hampshire. These pieces are high fired and can go from freezer to flame to oven to table. Glazed with earth tones of cream and a reddish brown, there are frypans with two pouring spouts, $8.50 and up, a butter warmer, $9, and casseroles, beginning at $10.

Charles Hance of Maine also does flameware and he has an interesting double casserole, $20, and a fondue pot, $24. And Jeanne Drevas has made a spice rack with a grey-green glaze, $40, that can be filled with matching jars, $2.50 each.

We felt that some of Nonnie Barmes pottery was the most fascinating in the gallery. She uses a very dark brown glaze and many pieces have a classical feel to them. For instance, there is a bowl with pearl goat design, and a Greek urn with two goats in relief sculpture on the front.

Then there is the pottery of Jerry Friedman, who uses a glaze with wax resists and has some exciting blues and reds, $4 and up for a bowl; and the graceful hanging baskets in natural colors by David Brondo of Massachusetts which are macrame, strung by his wife, Barbara, $35 and up.

Leaving the pottery, we saw glass paperweights filled with cloud formations that are blown and weighted by Charles Lutner of Montana; blue and black enamels of angels and devils by Harold B. Helwig. Pendants start at $25; and free-form zebra wood mirrors (also available in walnut), are $70.

Chet Spacher of Florida has some amusing copper sculptures such as a crazy owl with eyes that wave, $44, and a golfer and tennis player, $16 and up. We also liked his curved candle sticks, each of which holds three tapers at different heights, $45 the pair.

Art can also be worn, and the Artisan has hand wrought

BATIKS AT ARTISAN: Beautiful batiks in bright colors by Sara Eyestone are at the Artisan, 30 Witherspoon Street. After several coats of wax and dyes, the fabric takes on the quality of an oil canvas. A trace of wax is left to waterproof and protect the batik, and they are meant to be hung on stretchers, without a frame or glass. The prices begin at $15.

jewelry by several artists. Don Pierson of Maine has a lovely pierced circle pendant, some curved hanging earrings, both in sterling silver, $12 and up.

Then, of course, the gallery would not be complete without paintings, woodcuts, engravings, etc., with prices beginning at $5. The Artisan is at 30 Witherspoon Street and is open 10 to 5 Tuesday through Saturday.

NEW ON MOORE STREET

Interior Design Studio. All Fall many Princeton residents have been wondering who was giving Moore Street a contemporary look. Then late last month, after two years of operating from a temporary location in Lawrenceville, Pat Davis opened Interior Design Studio.

When Miss Davis first saw the house, she thought it perfect for her interior decorating business. However, a zoning variance was needed, and it was two years before the board agreed, with the condition that she turn the upstairs into an apartment.

Then last summer modernization began and the result is crisp and spacious. The kitchen was removed, the back of the house opened up with a large glass window, everything painted white, and the floors brought back to the original boards.

The house is furnished with versatile pieces and accessories that Miss Davis hopes will be unique to her studio. Her love of the unusual begins with the studio's sign which is composed of old wood printing blocks, found on a day's antiquing trip. Therefore, each letter is backwards and the sign certainly makes you look twice.

And inside. Inside there are two white loveseats, which if you find comfortable, can be ordered in any fabric, size, with or without arms, high pillows, recessed base, etc. However, if you need something other than a basic sofa, there are catalogs and trips to the New York furniture houses.

Miss Davis goes to New York at least once a week, and she is happy to take a client along. In fact, if you have never been to some of these decorating spots, it can be a lot of fun.

Interior Design Studio offers a complete decorating service from finding samples and painters, to arranging rooms and ordering furniture.

Miss Davis feels that people should not be intimidated by the interior decorator's stereotype of high prices and away with all your favorite chairs. She is happy to work with what you already own and on orders gives her clients 15 per cent off the list price.

include plexiglass shelves and a coffee table, original pottery planters by a New York sculptor, lucite candle holders and bookends, and a beautiful needlepoint design for bentwood chairs by Judith Gross of Yardley, Pa.

Miss Davis, a member of NSID, was previously with Group Nine of Lawrenceville. Also in the studio are two associates—Mitzi Markowitz of Princeton and Nicole Rubin of East Brunswick. Interior Design Studio is open Wednesday through Friday from 10 to 5 and other days by appointment.

Now She Eats Anything, Even Spaghetti

Two undaunted Princeton parents, a pair of imaginative doctors and a courageous 15-year-old girl have made some quiet medical history. For about a year, Caroline Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bevin Smith, 7 Newlin Road, has been able to eat only liquids and soft foods. Her illness began last fall when she began having difficulty eating. She was uncomfortable and frequently nauseated, and her discomfort became so acute that her parents took her to New York where she was hospitalized three weeks for tests.

Caroline, a tall, slender teenager, has an illness typical of adolescents with her build, in which the intestine is blocked by the artery which crosses it, the affliction is called superior mesenteric artery syndrome (SMAS). Caroline underwent surgery on May 22 in New York. Ten days later, she had an emergency operation. Even after seven weeks in the hospital and two surgical procedures, Caroline still could not eat or digest properly.

Doctors seemed unable to offer a solution, but Caroline's parents wouldn't give up. They began traveling to medical schools, looking for articles on SMAS in medical journals. During a New England vacation this summer, they explored the Harvard Medical School's Countway Library and found an article by Eli Wayne and John D. Burrington, two doctors on the surgical staff at Children's Hospital in Denver. It seemed to be the most comprehensive, up-to-date article on the subject, so the Smiths corresponded with Dr. Wayne. On October 16, Mrs. Smith and Caroline went to Denver. At that time, Caroline weighed only 88 pounds, not much for a sophomore in high school who had once weighed close to 110. form. She ate a hamburger with barium in it. Tests then showed that liquids could go through Caroline's system, but solids could not.

In New York, Caroline had undergone a liquid barium test, in which the patient drinks the barium and is then x-rayed. The barium shows up throughout the digestive tract on the x-ray, and doctors can see if there are any obstructions. New York doctors had found none. But Dr. Wayne had another idea. He, too, gave Caroline a barium test, but it was in bulk

Dr. Wayne operated on Caroline on Oct. 23, enlarging the opening between the stomach and the small intestines. When she was discharged a week later, she had already gained four pounds, and was beginning to eat some solid food. "I'm looking forward to a big plate of spaghetti," she said.

This is Carnegie Music's specially constructed sound system. Some intricate wiring makes it possible to listen to any combination of receiver, speakers, turntable or tape deck by merely flipping a few switches and the rounded walls keep the sound waves from being reflected, enabling you to hear the speakers' true sound.

The room is even set up with the new JVC four channel discreet record system that requires four speakers. Do give it a try. However, the two-speaker stereo system is still with us and we saw equipment by McIntosh, Bose, Phase Linear, Revox, Sansui, Tandberg, Thorens and JVC. Carnegie Music has always carried high quality equipment, but last September when the store moved into larger quarters, Walter Hickman, the owner, added a line of less expensive items.

New is Stereo. By Voice of Music there is a portable turntable with two attached speakers that would be perfect for a child away at school, $72.95. Then by Waltron we saw a white circular stereo system on its own pedestal stand. This modern-looking system has a turntable, built-in speakers, am-fm radio, an 8-track cassette player, and two external speakers, $349.95.

JVC also makes TV's, radios, and cassette players, many with tomorrow's look. For instance there is the videosphere, a 9-inch portable black and white television with a 360 degree rotation. It can sit on a table or hang from a hook, and it comes in red, black or ivory, $140. Another new feature is a complete line of classical and pop records, all at prices competitive with the discount stores.

Carnegie Music's larger store is still located at the Montgomery Shopping Center, Route 206, and the hours during December are Monday through Friday 10 to 9, Saturday 10 to 6 and Sunday 1 to 5.

OVER 65?
Get $5 Physical. Deadline is Friday, November 30, for senior citizens to register for a Health Screening to be held December 9 at the Princeton Medical Center. If you are 65 or older and live in Princeton Borough or Township, you are eligible to register and to have the screening. The fee, payable on registration, is $5. The screening will be between 10 and 3 Sunday, December 9. Registrants will be accepted on a first-come-first-served basis for the limited number of examinations available.

If you want the screening, you should go to the Borough Health Office in Borough Hall, or the Township Health Office in Township Hall between 9 and 5 (except for this Friday, November 23). The tests consist of blood pressure, blood studies, urinalysis, study of a stool sample and chest X-ray. It will take about one hour. Results will be sent to your doctor. If you don't have a doctor here, there will be a list from which you can choose.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you
 By John Bernard

What was the most fantastic single performance ever made on a football field? . . . In 1924, Red Grange, the all-time great back of Illinois, did something that will probably never be equaled. . . In a game that season, Grange ran back the opening kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown, and then, on succeeding plays, ran 66, 55 and 40 yards respectively in fabulous broken field runs for three more touchdowns. . . Thus, on just four plays, Grange made four spectacular long runs and scored four touchdowns all in one quarter!

Amazingly enough, a town with a population of only 842 once had a team in the National Football League! . . . The little town of La Rue, Ohio had a team in the NFL in 1922 and 1923. . . The team, owned by the Oorang Kennels of La Rue, was known as the Oorang Indians, and among their star players was the immortal Jim Thorpe.

Has any pro football team ever gone from finishing in last place one season to finishing in first place the next season? . . . It's happened only three times in National Football League history. . . Minnesota finished last in 1967 and first in '68. . . San Francisco finished last in 1969 and first in '70, and Green Bay wound up last in 1971 and ended up in first place in their division in 1972.

I bet you didn't know. . . that insurance is our only business. It pays to deal with specialists.

Dartmouth Eyes Title, Tigers the Cellar

For the third week in a row, Princeton's troubled football team is confronted with the opportunity to confound the logical order of finish in the Ivy League by recording an upset, and for the third time, it is likely to fall short of the mark. Its problem this weekend is compounded by the fact that, unlike unpredictable Yale and a Harvard eleven that appears to be running out of gas, Dartmouth has improved every Saturday for the past month.

As of October 13, Princeton and Dartmouth had a great deal in common, in that both for the first time in decades had lost their first three games. Today, there is no similarity at all: the Tigers have won one of their last four, whereas the Green has taken its last five in a row.

in Palmer Stadium, they will be assured of their tenth first-place finish since the Ivy League was formally established 17 years ago—domination of the Ancient Eight that no other member can come close to matching. Six times in the past, Dartmouth has won the title outright, and if Yale defeats Harvard at New Haven, as is entirely possible, Coach Jake Crouthamel will have defended the Ivy crown successfully after

New Hampshire for the first time in history, to a Holy Cross team that is now no better than .500, and to Penn in its Ivy opener.

If Princeton loses—as is to be expected, because its offense still sputters despite visible improvement, and its defense has allowed the near-unbelievable average of 24 points a game—the Tigers will try to forget memories of their worst season in 104 years. Saturday's 30-to-13 defeat by Yale tied the slightly shorter seasonal mark of 1-7 that was recorded in 1931.

QUICK LOOK AT DARTMOUTH
OFFENSE: Now at its best of '73 season, with all personnel healthy. Ground game has fine inside punch, outside speed.
DEFENSE: As good as any among Ivies. Has allowed only 19 points in last three games.
CHIEF ASSET: Topflight execution shown by most Dartmouth teams, plus chance to finish first after losing first three.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Hard to find one against Princeton. Offense has often had to grind it out, but Tiger defense may cure that.

Dartmouth Tough to Trim. When things are going right at Hanover, Dartmouth teams are very difficult to beat because they almost invariably play up to their potential. Over the years, all of the other perennial contenders have often lost a solid shot at the title because they fall victim to a rousing upset. Rarely, however, does the Green lose when it has the horses to earn the role of favorite.

A large part of the reason

2 Players, 2 Coaches Have Met Before

Two players and two coaches who will have a major share in the Dartmouth-Princeton game Saturday are on something better than speaking terms with each other. The Dartmouth quarterback, Tom Snickenberger, is a brother of Walt, Princeton's leading running back, and Boh Casciola, the Tigers' head coach, served at Dartmouth with Jake Crouthamel when both were assistants to Bob Blackman.

Casciola was at Hanover for three seasons, leaving at the end of the 1968 campaign to join the staff at the University of Connecticut, and then came here last winter to succeed Jake McCandless. Crouthamel returned to coach at his alma mater in 1965 and succeeded Blackman when the latter went to Illinois three years ago.

Walter Snickenberger, Sr., graduated from Dartmouth, is now director of admission at Cornell and will be in Palmer Stadium Saturday for the first meeting on the same field between his sons. Tom was a sophomore last fall but Walt sat out the season for academic reasons. Now both are juniors, and they will play against each other again next year at Hanover, although their platoons are, of course, never on the field at the same time.

Tom has accounted for 11 touchdowns this year, passing for five and running for six more, including both TD's that his team scored last week against Cornell. He is a return to the bygone days of the triple-threat, occasionally handling the punting chores for Dartmouth.

Brother Walt, who has managed four touchdowns for the problem-ridden Princeton offense, has gained more than 800 yards rushing this season to rank among the nation's leaders in that department. Four days after the football season ends, he'll be in another uniform as a forward in Princeton's hockey team. Tom also plays two sports in college, seeing action as a hard-hitting infielder for the Dartmouth baseball team.

sidelined him for a month, but he has been back since last October, and against Cornell Saturday, he ripped off 128 yards in 19 carries, mostly on sallies around the ends.

With Klupchak out, fullback Ellis Rowe has become the team's leading rusher this fall, trailed by only a small margin by running back Doug Lind. Quarterback Tom Snickenberger, whose pass completion average tops 50 per cent, also runs well, as does junior John Souba. Depth of this sort will give the Green a marked advantage over Princeton, which has used Walt Snickenberger and Bob Reid almost without relief against Harvard and Yale.

Defensively, Dartmouth was up to its old tricks last weekend as it defeated Cornell, 17-0, for its first shut out of the season. The Green's defense has been generally solid all fall, yielding three TD's only to Penn. and only one apiece to three other opponents, in addition to making Cornu

DEFENSE DOES IT
Yale Has One, Tigers Don't.

If Princeton's defense had been able to shut down on Yale's running game in the second half Saturday, the hungry Tigers might conceivably have erased the one-point (14-13) deficit with which they left the field at half-time and won on a field goal.

Instead, the Orange and Black yielded three more touchdowns in the closing half as a pair of Yale quarterbacks who are by no means the class of the Ivy League steadily picked the losers' defense apart. Records for third (and fourth) down conversions are not kept, but Princeton must have set an all-time Ivy mark Saturday when it allowed the Elis to make the necessary yardage no less than 14 times—a total which does not count the number of occasions when they gained at least 10 yards in two downs or less.

Although the game was within reach of Princeton's frustrated operatives until Brian Clarke's 31-yard field goal made it 24-13 with four minutes left in the final quarter, the pattern of dominance that Yale enjoyed was established in the opening minutes when the visitors scored easily the first two times they got their hands on the ball. The first drive covered 41 yards, the second 56, and with less than 12 minutes gone, the visitors had a 14-0 lead.

As it had at Cambridge, Princeton managed to score twice, but the same extra-point conversion problem again put it in a hole. Sophomore Bob Reid capped a 51-yard march by going over from the 6 just after the second quarter began and Scott Morrison converted.

Seven minutes later, after Walt Snickenberger eliminated a 40-yard drive with a two-yard burst through tackle, Morrison again booted the extra point but Princeton had been in motion illegally. The second try failed because the snap was mishandled and a chance to leave the field all even on the strength of a fine rally fizzled.

When play resumed, Yale gradually took complete charge, wrapping up the first seven-game victory streak in the 100-year old series. The Elis covered 82 yards in convincing fashion, the wish-bone option with all four backs sharing the ball-carrying assignments clearly overpowering the Princeton defenders in a drive that averaged nearly six yards per play.

Midway through the fourth quarter, trailing by no more than a touchdown and a two-point conversion, Princeton drove from its 33 to the Yale 46 but a diagonal pass to the left sidelines intended for Snickenberger was intercepted and run back to the losers' 35. Yale drove in close enough for the field goal and then scored its fifth touchdown with 34 seconds left. During the afternoon, the Bulldogs running attack gained 292 yards and eight completions in 13 attempts were good for 18 first downs—to a mere seven for Princeton.

While the Tigers could claim credit for doing some things very well, the glaring mistakes they made on the first and the last plays of the game were symbolic of their troubles this year. Sophomore Rich Monaghan, who in the future will profit from his experience this fall, took the opening kickoff on the 8-yard line, its sharp angle immediately driving him out of bounds.

Had it let it go, it would either have resulted in a five-yard penalty for Yale or, at worst, have bounded into the end zone on the wings of a strong wind. As it was, the Tigers were in a hole from the word go, punted poorly to their 41 and Yale took advantage of the field position to produce its first touchdown.

In the closing seconds of the game, Princeton drove 64 yards to the Yale 1, where a

Tigers Open Basketball Season Saturday

Princeton's basketball team will open its season in Jadwin Gym Saturday night at 7:30 with an exhibition game against a touring team known as Athletes in Action. A group of former college players who are working year-round for the Campus Crusade for Christ International, they are expected to provide a good measure of opposition.

Coach Pete Carril's team begins regular season play the following Saturday in New York against a well-regarded Fordham team. It will be on the road again Wednesday, December 5, to play Navy at Annapolis before opening its intercollegiate schedule here Saturday, December 8, against Villanova. (For the complete 1973-74 schedule, and those of other winter sports teams in this area, see pages 18 and 19).

Andy Rimol, the veteran 6-9 center, will captain this year's team, which may have a shot at bettering last year's 16-9 mark but figures to have a major problem in unseating Penn as the Ivy League champion. The Tigers chased the Quakers down the stretch but lost all chance to catch them when they dropped back-to-back games in late February to Yale and Brown.

There is better than average depth to go with Rimol up front. Possible starters are Joe Vavricka and John Berger, whose experience after two years on the varsity works in their favor. Vavricka has a good touch in shooting; Berger plays in streaks on offense but is highly adept defensively.

Newcomers Are Capable. Battling Vavricka and Berger for starting jobs are a pair of promising sophomores, Barnes Hauptfuhrer and Bob Slaughter, as well as junior Brien O'Neill, who gave several good performances last winter in his first year on the varsity. Hauptfuhrer, a 6-7 center on last year's freshman quintet, is a good rebounder and will probably spell Rimol at center on occasion. O'Neill can also play back court if necessary.

Already set-before the season begins-to replace last year's captain, Ted Manakas, is sophomore Armond Hill, a highly-talented graduate (and post-graduate) of Lawrenceville who learned much of his early basketball in the productive borough of Brooklyn. Hill is the quarterback the Tigers need to run the team, and there is every reason to believe he will have a fine first year despite the pressure he will feel.

There is a four-way battle for the other back court spot, and the early games will no doubt provide considerable opportunity for Carril to experiment. Senior Al Burton, a spot player for the past two years, has a good shot at it. So does junior Tim van Bloommesteijn, who had a good sophomore season in a reserve role.

Another sophomore, Mickey Steurer, has made unusual progress during pre-season practice, getting a firm nod of approval from assistant coach Gary Walters. Walters, who played here a decade ago and has since coached at Dartmouth, Middlebury and Union, came here earlier this fall when Butch van Breda Kolff left as Carril's assistant to become coach and general manager of Memphis in the ABA.

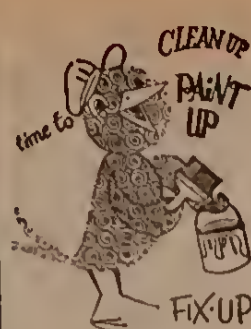

Good Bench Strength. Steurer may be held for reserve duty, coming in when Hill needs a rest. O'Neill is on the hack court battle, as is sophomore Pete Molloy. The 12th man on the squad is 6-7 Bob Doist, who sat out last season but has reported for this year's action.

Now that football is in such a prolonged slump at Princeton, basketball is head and shoulders above the rest of the spectator sports here. General balance in the Ivy League and the tough national schedule the Tigers face, will make improvement over the 16-9 mark extremely difficult, but it is possible.

After Villanova, the only home action prior to the Christmas break is Rutgers, a game set for Tuesday, December 11, that will come as close as any this year to filling Jadwin, because the Scarlet is good and is out for the Tiger's hide. The team then heads for Lawrence, Kansas, to play two games on successive days against Washington State, Oregon and Kansas, the opposition depending on the draw and how the Tigers do in the first contest.

Following a trip to Greensboro, N.C., to play Davidson, a strong opponent which the Tigers edged last winter, 82-78, they will take part after Christmas in the ECAC Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden. The Ivy League opener, as usual, is set for Jadwin on Saturday, January 5, against Penn.

PHS Ends Football Season on Winning Note

Both the Princeton High School football team and PHS halfback Bob Zinsmeister finished the season in style Saturday.

Scoring once in every period, the Little Tigers defeated Trenton, 27-3, to finish with a 5-4 record and a probable second place in the first official Mercer County League standings where its record was 4-2. (Hamilton and Notre Dame are likely to finish tied for first.) The first three touchdowns against the Tornados were all scored by Zinsmeister.

ZINSMEISTER ON THE MOVE: PHS halfback Bob Zinsmeister scored three touchdowns and gained more than 100 yards against Trenton Saturday to cap a brilliant football career. Here he runs for a first down to the Trenton 12 after taking a pass from John Moonay. PHS won its final game, 27-3.

Zinsmeister staked PHS to a 6-0 lead before the game against home-team Trenton was less than four minutes old when he raced over from the one on a counter play to cap a short PHS drive of 12 yards--the result of a poor snapback on an attempted Trenton punt.

Then with 46 seconds left to go in the half, and immediately after PHS had kicked a 27-yard field goal to cut Princeton's margin to three, the 5'7, 160-pound senior scored his 12th touchdown of the season when he returned the kickoff 85 yards--his fourth such return of the season.

Zinsmeister fielded the low line drive on his 15 and for a crucial 10 yards, threaded his way up the middle through the entire converging Trenton defense. Before he reached midfield, it was evident he was going all the way.

With 5:39 left in the third period, Zinsmeister capped an 80-yard PHS drive, when on a fourth and seven from the 27, he caught a perfectly thrown pass from quarterback John Moonay over his shoulder in the end zone. The TD pass was Moonay's eighth of the season, Zinsmeister's fourth and the first scoring aerial by PHS since the Hun contest four games ago.

In all, Zinsmeister rushed for 128 yards in a dozen carries. "Zinsmeister," said phatically after the game, "is the best back in the county; I can't say too much about him." Wood even allowed, although he said he had no way of knowing, that he wouldn't be surprised if Zinsmeister was one of the backs in the state.

Ron Campbell added Princeton's fourth six-pointer and its 30th of the season when he went in from six yards out with 4:32 left in the game. Two plays earlier a Trenton punt by Earl Warren had gone straight up and taken a backward bounce to wind up on the PHS 11.

"Trenton is getting better," commented Wood later. (Trenton actually gained three more first downs than PHS in the contest and almost matched them in rushing yardage.) "But they made more mistakes than we did." Wood predicted Trenton will certainly improve under new coach Mark Bailey. "He's young, and he's got a lot of ideas," he said. Trenton finished 2-7.

When Zinsmeister wasn't scoring, the PHS defense was bottling up Trenton, especially whenever the Tornados got inside the 20. The PHS pass defense was particularly frustrating to Trenton as it allowed Tom Piscione only five completions in 22 attempts.

Dribble-Kick Succeeds. After Zinsmeister's 85-yard return, PHS pulled a surprise when Steve Tomlinson's short kickoff was recovered by Pete Barnett on the Trenton 49. A piling on penalty whistled against Trenton and a first-down pass from Moonay to Zinsmeister carried PHS to the 12 with 8 seconds left. Tomlinson trotted in to try a field goal but it was blocked by Trenton's own linemen.

In the first period, when Tomlinson's attempted conversion went wide, it marked his first miss of the season. He finished 29-for-30 in PAT's.

Our 50th Anniversary Year

There's a lot more to being a telephone operator than just sitting at a switchboard. Anyone who thinks otherwise should listen in when an operator spends an hour or more trying to calm a frightened child who has been left alone.

Or when a hysterical babysitter calls in an emergency. Or when natural disaster strikes, and every call is a possible crisis.

Sure, there are rules to follow. But since no two callers are alike, operators must be able to think and act independently at all times... whether it's making a routine connection, looking up a customer listing or following through on an emergency call.

Since the operator is generally your primary contact with the phone company, his or her standards automatically reflect ours. That's a pretty big responsibility. And our operators know it. That's why, when they complete a call, telephone operators want to feel assured that they've done everything possible to satisfy you.

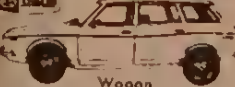

People have always expected more from the telephone company. So being good isn't good enough.

Remarkable Athlete. One has to shake his head over Zinsmeister's accomplishments on the gridiron. As a 158-pound junior last year, he scored six touchdowns, three rushing, three on pass receptions. His career total of 19 TD's is certainly one of the highest ever compiled by any PHS player.

His stamina and endurance set him apart as much as his playing ability. Co-captain of the team with tackle Dave Harwood, Zinsmeister was also captain of the defense. He played both ways in every game and despite the pounding never had to leave a game because of injury. Ironically, the only contest he missed was a pre-season scrimmage because of a leg bruise.

A few days before the Notre Dame game two weeks ago, he cut his leg when a mirror he was carrying at home broke. He played despite 14 sutures in his leg—and scored one of Princeton's two touchdowns—a typical Zinsmeister play when he returned a kickoff for a TD.

This week, Wood reported Zinsmeister played in the Trenton game with a strep throat infection. The season was only two games old before Wood was describing Zinsmeister as "unquestionably the team leader." The comment heard over and over during the season from many followers of the team was "...if only Princeton had a few more like Zinsmeister."

As a member of the PHS wrestling team, Zinsmeister advanced farther in the annual post season district and regional matches than any other since the sport was taken up at the school. He broke into the varsity baseball lineup as a freshman catcher. Three years ago PHS wrestling coach Tom Murray saw early that Zinsmeister was something special. "Keep your eyes on him—he's going to be one of the great ones," he predicted.

23 Seniors Depart. Twenty-three seniors played their last game for the Little Tigers.

They are Angelo Arcaro, offensive guard; Jack Bayer, fullback and defensive end; Ron Campbell, halfback and linebacker; Mike Diamond, offensive end and defensive back; Louis DiFalco, offensive tackle; Jeff Drummond, offensive guard and defensive tackle; Rich Edwards, offensive and defensive tackle; David Harwood, co-captain, tackle and linebacker; Steve Kopp, defensive back; Guy Mendelson, offensive guard, defensive lineman; John Mooney, quarterback; and Dan Poling, offensive and defensive tackle.

Also, George Reynolds, fullback and defensive safetyman; Kevin Scudder, halfback; George Bess, halfback; James Brooks, offensive guard; Mark Campbell, end, defensive back; Blair Thompson, guard, defensive tackle; Richard Warfield, end, defensive back; Keith Carney, tackle, Keith Rendall, offensive and defensive tackle; Richard Warfield, end, defensive back; Keith Carney, tackle.

PHS FINISHES THIRD

In Cross-Country Meet. The Princeton High School cross-country team, undefeated in regular competition and Mercer County Champions, placed third Saturday in Group 3 standings in the NJSSAA Cross Country Championships held on the Three-mile Garrett Mountain course near Paterson.

The Little Tigers compiled 192 points to finish behind Pascack Valley (100) and Morris Hills (178). Individual leaders for PHS were Pete Nichols who placed ninth with a clocking of 15:57 and Royce Flippin, whose 16:04 performance earned him a 13th place among the approximate 150 starters.

Other starters for PHS: John Woodside, 26th (16:21); Mike Ciohossey, 62nd (16:56) and Morgan Snyder 81st, (17:13). The winning time was 15:28. Twenty teams participated in the event.

Princeton High's No. 3 runner, Tim Anderson was knocked down and trampled over in the extremely crowded start. He was unable to finish. The Little Tigers are coached by Larry Ivan.

PHS Scoring Breakdown

Of the 30 touchdowns scored by the PHS football team this season, halfback Bob Zinsmeister accounted for nearly half—13. Four of those were pass receptions.

End Rich Warfield was second with four TDs, all coming on passes within the first three games. Quarterback John Mooney rushed for three scores, as did halfback Ron Campbell, while fullback Jack Bayer had two scoring plunges.

Producing one touchdown each were Kevin Scudder, Jeff Benfer, Pete Watson, Steve Kopp (pass interception) and Steve Tomlinson (pass reception). Mooney threw eight scoring strikes, Pete Watson, one. The Little Tiger defense limited its opponents to 13 TDs and shut out three: Hamilton, St. Anthony and Hun.

program will be held in the John Witherspoon School gymnasium. Those 17 and older are invited.

RACING RESULTS

La Fountain Sunfish Victor. Season leader Tad LaFountain finished first among the 10 Sunfish sailors who braved the cold weather Sunday to participate in the weekly races of the Carnegie Sailing Club.

Walt Gibson finished second, while former Sunfish champion Bob Holzman, now a Laser skipper, returned to his old boat for Sunday's races and came in third.

TANNER IS PARTICIPANT

In Jadwin Tennis Jamboree. Ticketholders for the Jadwin Tennis Jamboree on December 1 will get a close-up look at one of the most promising of today's young tennis players, Roscoe Tanner.

Tanner, a 22-year old Stanford graduate, has a left-handed, cannonball serve. Ken Rosewall, who was once aced 12 times by Tanner, said, "I just couldn't see the ball. He nearly killed 10 spectators behind me."

The son of an attorney in Lookout Mountain, Tennessee, Tanner's game has been aided by the all-time great Pancho Gonzalez, who has made Roscoe the young power player that he is today.

A three-time collegiate All-American, the 6-foot, 175-pounder has the No. 5 national ranking in singles and the No. 3 ranking in doubles with Sandy Mayer from the USLTA. He was also a quarter finalist in the 1972 Open, and a finalist in the 1972 Pacific Southwest Championships.

Playing with Roscoe on December 1 are Arthur Ashe, Bob Lutz, Gene Scott, Herb FitzGibbon, and Margie Gengler.

Tickets for this benefit event are on sale at the Jadwin Ticket Office, Princeton University (phone 452-3538). Patron tickets are $12.50, reserved tickets $5, and student tickets, $1.

For those who can't get to Jadwin, order blanks are available at Princeton sporting goods stores, indoor tennis centers, the Princeton University Store, Princeton schools, and the Youth Tennis Foundation, 71 University Place. (phone 924-4343). These orders should be mailed directly to the Jadwin Ticket Office, Box 71, Princeton University, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

University Ponders Options in Fuel Crisis

If all goes well, students in the dormitories of Princeton University will shiver a little each night, as temperatures drop to 60 degrees or below. If all goes well, the University Chapel will be chilly except for one warm little nook in the vicinity of the organ. If all goes well, spectators at Jadwin Gymnasium may sit in 50 degree temperature and hope that the Princeton basketball team can generate some heat in the Ivy League. If all does not go well, the basketball team could forfeit some of its games, heat in most University buildings could be dropped to 40 degrees, just enough to avoid permanent damage to the plumbing, and the University could experience an unprecedented mid-winter shut down.

The problem, of course, is energy, and whether or not the University can get enough of it. That same concern is shared by other institutions, large and small, throughout the Princeton area.

While no one is certain yet how severe the fuel shortage will be this winter, everyone has at least instituted conservation measures. The expectation is universal that at least some discomfort can be expected in the form of chilly offices and homes.

The pessimists are reminding listeners of last year's exceptionally mild winter, in which - if memory serves correctly - not more than four or five bitterly cold days were experienced. The question is: Can the weatherman be expected to give anyone a break two years in a row?

P.U.'s Catch-22. The question is especially pressing for the University, whose problems are compounded by the elaborate nature of its heating and power generating plant, and by special disadvantages it may have if fuel oil allocations are initiated by the Federal Government.

The University's heating plant, which also generates most of the electric power used on the main campus, can be run either on natural gas or No. 6 (heavy) fuel oil. Until several years ago, it was fueled by coal, but that was converted to conform to clean-air standards.

Now, if permission were granted to return to coal, the University would be unable to do so. The new plant allows quick conversion from gas to oil but major modifications are needed to change back to coal.

Fuel allocations would pose the most serious problems for the University, because last year it used relatively little fuel oil for its plant. Gas was the major source of fuel.

Sounding the Alarm. This year the University's gas supply already has been exhausted. If fuel allocations are instituted, and if they are based on a straight percentage of last year's fuel use, the University will be left with very little supply to heat a plant that is in fact larger than last year's, due to the construction of the Spelman Halls dormitory complex. That's why the University has sounded the alarm of a possible temporary closing.

"At present we believe we can avoid a drastic and potentially disruptive change in schedule," President William G. Bowen said this week. "The matter could be measures are both practical taken out of our hands either and political. Said the by a stringent allocation President: "We will be in a system imposed by the much better position to ask for government or by reduced or a fair allocation which will interrupted oil deliveries." allow us to continue operating

If oil supplies run out if we can demonstrate that we altogether, even for only a have taken rigorous measures short period, the University to reduce our consumption." would also be in serious If such allocation occurs

TOWN TOPICS Converts to Offset Printing

TOWN TOPICS this week joins the ranks of most weekly and many daily newspapers printed by the process known to the trade as offset, rather than letterpress. While the mechanical procedure in composing a paper for public consumption is somewhat similar in both instances, the fundamental difference is that whereas letterpress uses hot type and metal, offset relies on paper and is accordingly known as cold type.

The overall appearance of offset papers is superior to those printed by letterpress, largely because the photographic effects of offset are more eye-catching. Use of lightweight aluminum plates on a modern, high-speed offset press is also a major improvement over the cumbersome zinc plates cast from matrices which letterpress requires.

While TOWN TOPICS' staff is delighted to join the ranks of offset papers, it is aware that there is considerable room for improvement in the eye-appeal of this first issue. The task of converting in six days' time from letterpress to offset was an assignment of considerable proportions, and involved literally hundreds of man-hours on the part of those charged with its completion. It is, of course, gratifying to know that the second issue will improve upon the first, and that those to appear in succeeding weeks will follow that trend.

This issue brings two changes in format: the date lines and page numbers appear at the outside top of each page, and each page is 16 rather than 15 inches deep. Both innovations achieve economy without affecting the reader's attention: it is, for example, possible to present virtually the same amount of news, pictures and advertising in 52 pages today as in 56 pages last week.

trouble. Its storage capacity is only a few days' supply, depending again on the University

Conservation Measures. The University aims to cut back sharply on both heat and electricity consumption. It is cutting residential facilities to 68 degrees and to 60 for a six-hour period at night. Academic buildings will be cut to 65 degrees and to 60 from 7:30 p.m. to 7:30 a.m. Other facilities will be lowered as far as possible - gymnasiums to 50 without special provision for the University, more drastic measures may be necessary, including the lowering of temperatures to 60 degrees in all facilities except living areas and areas of special research activities; further reduction in some areas to 40 degrees and the cancellation of activities, such as sports events and assemblies; the closing of dormitories during all or part of vacation periods; and the altering of the academic calendar.

The calendar changes being considered include, in President Bowen's words, "attempting to complete the first term prior to Christmas, extending the Christmas vacation, holding the reading period prior to Christmas with examinations to be held in early January or modified in other ways, and deferral of the start of the second term."

The lesson, in short, being applied through out the area was that you can fuel all of the people some of the time, some of the people all of the time, but you just can't fuel all of the people all of the time.

Colder and Darker. At Educational Testing Service, temperatures are being lowered from 74 to 68 degrees.

corridor lights are being turned off, and employees have been urged to switch off their office lights whenever they leave for more than 15 minutes. Individual offices will not be heated at night.

Princeton's public schools have been told by their supplier, Nassau Oil, that there is no problem. The State Department of Education, through the Office of Emergency Preparedness, has asked all public schools to let the state know when they reach the threshold of only two weeks' supply with no prospects of getting oil.

"We're nowhere near that point," says William Karch, manager of facilities services. One of the nice ironies is that shaky, senile Princeton High, for whom euthanasia has seemed the only course, is in nice shape because its ancient heating plant uses Number Six fuel oil, cheaper and heavier and in greater supply than the standard Number Four.

Princeton's district seems to be in a better position than other school districts, according to state officials, because Princeton's year starts July 1, instead of January 1. Back in July, things looked pretty good.

The school's architect, H. J. Uhl, is conferring with school maintenance men to develop a report on electric and heating systems. The high school building has an older, more complex thermostat system that doesn't respond to a simple flick of the finger lowering it to 68 degrees, Mr. Karch says.

Also, the building is heavily used after school hours—the Adult School is there two nights a week—and administrators are working out recommendations to the school board involving possible cut-backs in outside use of all school buildings.

"Immediately," Mr. Karch says, "we're recommending things like shutting blinds to keep in the heat. Mr. Uhl will then recommend long-range programs."

School buses can continue to roll, so far as anybody knows, but Atlantic Richfield's contract runs out December 31. It's uncertain who the new bidder will be and how successful in supplying gasoline to get the kids to schools. Ronald Novak, school business manager, warns that the new bidder may not even be willing to sing the standard performance bond.

Princeton's schools often join with Borough and Township governments to buy gasoline. They either buy through Mercer County, or do their own bidding, whichever is cheaper. Mercer County has said that its current bidder is charging 10 cents a gallon more for gasoline than last year. Borough, Township and schools are currently engaged in talks with the county to see whether something cheaper—and certain of delivery—can be arranged.

The Institute for Advanced Study uses both gas and oil to warm its scholars. Fuld Hall, the older building, is oil-heated. The new academic building is gas. There are connections between the two. Most Institute housing is heated with two oil burners and one gas burner, the latter for mild weather only.

"Our suppliers aren't upset," says Minot C. Morgan, Jr., manager of the Institute. "We're already careful with electricity."

At Westminster Choir College, there are 30 organs that require a constant degree of heat and humidity or they get out of tune, so a radical lowering of heat must be considered with some care. A new $1,300 oil-burner is the kind that uses one-third less fuel.

Last Friday, Princeton Theological Seminary made its annual switch-over from gas heat to oil heat, says William Lawdor, treasurer. This is done at the start of the heating season each year. The Seminary is conserving electricity by lowering thermostats, especially on weekends.

Mr. Lawdor observes wryly that the institution has a new heating plant, installed only six years ago. It was designed to burn low-sulphur fuel—the very kind that may be in shortest supply.

MAN FACES CHARGE
In Auto Death. Bryce Maxwell Jr., 19, of McCosh Circle, has been charged with death by auto and reckless driving—the aftermath of an October 27 accident in which a passenger in his sports car was killed when it was involved in a collision on the Old Princeton Pike in Lawrence Township.

Since the accident, Mr. Maxwell has remained in Princeton Medical Center for treatment of head injuries but he is no longer on the critical list.

The second driver, Dylan Jones, 19, of Constitution Drive, also faces a reckless driving charge. Charges against the two will be heard in Lawrence Township Court when Mr. Maxwell's condition permits.

CRUSHED TO DEATH
By Rolling Pipe. A 15-year old Borough youth was crushed to death Saturday night when a 1200-pound section of concrete drainage pipe rolled over him at a Princeton University construction site off Ivy Lane near the mathematics tower. Stuart Van Vracken Willson 3rd, 15, 65 Westerly Road, was pronounced dead at 12:15 Sunday morning at Princeton Medical Center, a little more than an hour after the accident. Borough police have ruled the tragedy an accidental death and have made no charges. An autopsy was performed by Dr. David Fluck, Mercer County coroner.

The victim, who attended Princeton Day School, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Willson Jr.; a sister, Wylie; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Willson of Altoona, Wis.; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Richardson, 164 Cleveland Lane. A memorial service was held Wednesday afternoon at Trinity Episcopal Church.

Young Willson was accompanied by two companions age 14 and 15, at the time of the mishap. Police report that a dozen of the pipes, measuring 4 feet by 9 feet, had been stacked in a row on a grassy area that sloped slightly. The pipes were held in place by wooden stakes.

According to police, six of the pipes had been moved by the three youngsters. As reconstructed by police, one of the three was inside the rolling pipe while another was pushing it.

The victim jumped atop the pipe as it was moving but its momentum caused him to fall off. The pipe rolled over him, crushing him. Chief Michael Carnevale reported that the victim's two companions at first had difficulty trying to get help and reaching a phone. At 11:09 they managed to call police from a phone in McCosh Infirmary on campus.

Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt

responded and found the victim lying on a macadam walkway. An ambulance rushed him to the Medical Center.

DECISION DELAYED
On Renaming Street. "Tennent is a name as esteemed in U.S. history as Stuart is in the history of Great Britain," intoned Township Committeeman William Sutphin Monday night, clearing his throat for a lengthy sermon on the historical, theological and educational contributions of the Tennent family to Princeton and the nation's service.

His discourse so overawed a couple of his colleagues that they voted with him, 3-2, to put off a decision changing the name of Tennent Court to Stuart Court. Tennent Court, which goes off Stuart Road, only has two residents. Both object to "Tennent Court". They say it's too similar to the Seminary's Tennent Hall (named for the same family) and that mail keeps getting mixed up.

Committeeman Abbot Low Moffat said doughtily that if residents didn't like a name, they shouldn't have to put up with it. He voted "no" on the motion to defer judgment. Committeeman Sanford Reynolds agreed, but they were outvoted. Tennent vs. Stuart will be on the docket again December 3.

Mr. Sutphin reminded Committee that William Tennent Sr. founded the famous Log College (1726), often cited as the ancestor of Princeton University. There were other Tennents around Princeton; so many, in fact, that not even Mr. Sutphin knows just which one is honored with Tennent Court. As he closed his text, he grinned at the audience. "That is our nugget of culture for today."

Curbs Postponed. In a mood to defer, Committee decided (unanimously, this time) to put off until December 3 the curbing amendment. This measure would retain the requirement that curbs be installed as a general rule, but would give the Princeton Regional Planning Board the option to require alternatives to curbs, in the interests of better drainage.

Township Engineer Joseph Hodak, who wasn't present, has reservations about the proposal and Committee wants a fuller explanation of his reasons before making a decision.

Bike Rules. Ordinances were introduced formally designating bike routes and regulating traffic on them. Public hearing December 3. Mr. Moffat pointed out that, under state motor vehicle regulations, the Township can't regulate hikes on roadways. But state regulations don't cover bikes on sidewalks, and, said Mr. Moffat, "If we didn't act, there wouldn't be any rules at all."

BOARD TO MEET
On School Affairs. When the school board meets next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Community Park School,
Superintendent Philip E.
McPherson will announce that results of last year's statewide testing program won't be available until December 5.
Dr. McPherson expected test results November 20;
however, a court appeal by the New Jersey Education Association has meant postponement until December. The NJEA doesn't want test data released to the public.

A "Youth Tutoring Youth" Program, funded with Title I money, will be up for board approval. Under it, 46 Middle School and High School students would tutor, one-to-one, 39 Community Park and seven St. Paul's pupils. The law requires inclusion of nonpublic school children.

The law also says the tutored children have to come from a target area
containing the most
"economically disadvantaged" pupils. Community Park's school population falls
clearly in this category, Dr.
McPherson says, adding "We're not very happy about this, and we hope we can get a change in policy guidelines." Children living in the Community Park area, but attending Riverside School, for example, would be deprived of the program.

The young tutors would work with children in the K-3 grades for one hour a day, four days a week. Language skills and computation—that is,
reading, writing and arithmetic—would be the tutored subjects. Tutors would get academic credit.

Federal officials have told
Princeton to apply for $13,688.
The preliminary proposal comes to $11,580. Money would go for a co-ordinator's salary, transportation of tutors and materials.

The board will make some budget transfers Tuesday night reflecting such changes as a $51,300 decrease in state aid due to new criteria for Special Services assistance, offset by a $51,300 increase in revenue from rental of Valley Road School rooms, etc.; a decrease of $69,600 in salaries traceable to completed negotiations with the staff and $25,300 increase in the cost of utilities.

Jackson and Chief Michael Carnevale were able to determine that the two, apparently starting around 6 p.m., had—unhindered—systematically emptied meters in the Witherspoon, Park Place and Tulane Street lots. The suspects had a key that fit each meter perfectly, commented Chief Carnevale.

Chief Carnevale reported that there were four other shortages noted previously by meter collectors totalling about $3,000. "It was obvious that someone had a key," he said.

Approximately $40 was recovered by police following last week's chase in which the two suspects tried to empty their pockets as they fled.

PLANNING AGREEMENT?

Possibly. Under a tentative agreement reached last week, Princeton will pay its planning consultant, Richard May, an extra $9,200 to finish up the housing job.

But the agreement is only tentative. Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley emphasized at a lengthy press conference Tuesday that Mr. May hasn't yet seen the language of the new contract and could decide to throw the whole thing overboard, leaving Princeton without a planner and with only part of a plan.

Nine of ten Princeton Regional Planning Board members present last week when the agreement was reached, voted in favor of it, the press was told. Board member William Sutphin did not vote.

"I do not favor re-negotiating this contract," Mr. Sutphin declared at Tuesday's press conference. "There is no reason for Mr. May to be excused from his obligation to produce a master plan for Princeton forthwith, under terms of his contract."

With Mr. Sutphin's statement, the press conference began to take on the air of an executive planning board meeting—eight board members were present, plus their lawyer and two Borough Councilmen—and William Walker, Planning Board member, said with some annoyance that he expected a press conference, not a re-discussion of the re-negotiated contract, and he walked out of the meeting.

Contract. It was in June,

1972, that Mr. May presented to the planning board a proposal estimated at $39,800, to prepare a housing plan. It was to have been in four phases. So far, Mr. May has been paid $32,440 of the $39,800, and Phase I is still not finished.

Planning Board chairman Hans K. Sander reminded the press conference that Mr. May had been asked not only to assemble additional data with the help of the Planning Board's housing sub-committee, but also to work with the sub-committee to develop a truly original housing plan, "not just something out of the drawer," in Mr. Sander's phrase. He added, "This meant a quantum increase in the scope of Mr. May's work."

The agreement not worked into formal contract language until April 3, 1973, although Mr. May had been at work for some months, specified an hourly rate as well as the $39,800, which was stated as a maximum. This apparent contradiction is one of the root problems between members of the Planning Board themselves and between the board and Mr. May: how do you reconcile an hourly rate with a maximum dollar amount?

"He was a very responsive consultant," Township Mayor Jay Bleiman observed to the press, "but the meter was running, and he never pointed this out."

Criticism of Mr. May on the part of some board members has elicited a letter of confidence in the planner from six members of the Planning Board—Harold Logan, Martha Lamar, Golda Gottlieb, Norman Williams, Mr. Walker and Mr. Sander.

Under the tentative agreement, Mr. May will get $9,200 more, for a total of $49,000. He has already received $32,400 so the Planning Board has budgeted $16,500 for 1974 which rounds out the $49,000 figure.

In a side report, Planning Board lawyer William Miller said he had talked with Mr. May's lawyer about possible connections between Mr. May's firm, Planners, Inc., and the firm of Matts, Childs, Associates, allegedly involved with the legal problems of former Vice President Spiro Agnew.

A payment of $1,500 by Edward Echeverria, of Planners, to Matts was in part payment for a stock purchase. Mr. Miller was told. He said he was satisfied there is no business relationship between Planners and Matts Childs, and he pointed out that Mr. May had joined Planners after the transactions that concerned Mr. Miller. Has Already taken place.

squads in most surrounding towns have women members.

Council was unanimous - 5-0, with Martin Lombardo absent - in the ordinance and the resolution. Public hearing Dec. 11.

Mrs. Sigmund reported that Anna Lewis, a PHS senior, had been rejected by the First Aid and Rescue Squad, because she was female. The case has been through New Jersey's Civil Rights Division and the courts, and is now back with Civil Rights.

Mrs. Sigmund, praising the Squad for its free service, said she hopes Miss Lewis' case can be settled through reconciliation rather than through the courts and added her hope that other women will apply.

A long harangue about the esthetics of blacktop versus concrete occupied Council and audience for over half an hour. Opening a public hearing on three ordinances concerned with Franklin Avenue bike paths, Mayor Robert W. Cawley found himself faced with Wiggins Street residents who don't like the blacktop bikeway now being laid there.

"It's a horrible sight!" protested Benjamin Kahn, who identified himself as a Wiggins property-owner. He charged that blacktop laid, as this is, right on the dirt with no foundation, had little hope for a long life and would have to be replaced soon.

Mayor Cawley said it was all right to lay such a surface on dirt, they do it all the time in paving streets. The other Cawley, Councilman Thomas Cawley, said blacktop was about all that could be laid so late in the season, and Council was anxious to get those bikes moving. Also, blacktop makes a ride smoother.

To a question from Albert Kahn, Councilman Cawley said that probably the Borough will assume maintenance costs of sidewalks, but no firm Council decision has been made.

'CHERRY PICKER' USED

To Arrest Drunk in Tree. In what may have been a first, Borough police last week used a "cherry picker" to arrest a drunk and disorderly person who had climbed a tree.

William Blackburn, 48, who has no known address, started out Thursday evening by uttering obscenities at passersby in front of Lahiere's Restaurant on Witherspoon Street. The cashier called police.

But when Sgt. Robert Anderson, Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm and Ptl. James Agins arrived, they discovered Blackburn had climbed some 30 feet up a huge huttonwood tree in front of the restaurant.

REPUBLICANS TO MEET: Preparing for the Women's Republican Club Member-Guest Coffee are Mrs. Fenn Stafford (left), W. Herry Seyen, Mercer County Republican Chairman, and Mrs. Warren Shew, membership chairman. "Restructuring and the Future of the Republican Party" will be the topic of Mr. Sayen's talk at 10 Tuesday morning at Mrs. Stafford's home.

He's 100

Walter W. Wells is now well into his 101st year. The Grover's Mill resident was born on November 15, 1873 in the province of New Brunswick, Canada. Last week he greeted 15 guests at a centennial celebration at his home on Clarksville Road.

An electrical engineer, Mr. Wells came to the United States in 1906 to join the staff of Western Electric. The Bell Telephone Company hadn't even been formed yet, but when it came into existence, Mr. Wells went right along and for the rest of his professional career worked on the development of the telephone.

When he retired in the 1930's, he left his New York base and moved to New Jersey. He still lives in the little house he bought 40 years ago. His daughter, Mrs. Jean Main, is his companion, and father and daughter are both active members of Nassau Presbyterian Church.

He was still keeping up a flow of obscenities but now, in addition, he was breaking off small branches and throwing them at the crowd that had gathered below.

Police requested a fire truck with a mechanical hoist, and Ptl. Wilhelm and Sgt. Anderson climbed in the "cherry picker" bucket and were hoisted up to Blackburn. They managed to get him in and all three were lowered to Witherspoon Street where Blackburn was charged with being drunk and disorderly and malicious damage to a Borough tree.

One More Time. Two days later, Blackburn was arrested again by Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt, this time on Nassau Street near Witherspoon.

Police charged him with shouting obscenities and molesting and grabbing at pedestrians as they walked by. The result: another drunk and disorderly charge and a scheduled appearance in Borough Court November 21.

WOMAN'S NECK SLASHED

During Argument. A 25-year old woman was slashed severely in the neck late Thursday evening while she was arguing in front of her rooming house at 184 Witherspoon Street with a man who later had to call police for protection from a revenge-seeking mob.

Gloria Merrill was taken by ambulance to nearby Princeton Medical Center where 65 sutures were needed to close a laceration of the neck. She had been found by police - unconscious - in a first floor hallway at the 184 rooming house address.

Police identified her attacker as John Bethea, 52, 148 Witherspoon Street. He has been charged with atrocious assault and battery. He was later released on $1,000 bail after an arraignment before former Borough Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr.

Chief Michael Carnevale reported that police received several excited calls from a police call box at 11:22 reporting that a woman had been badly cut. Three patrol cars and an ambulance rushed to the scene.

Nine minutes later, Bethea called police and asked for protection when he realized that a crowd which had witnessed the argument were coming after him. Borough police, backed up by two Township patrol cars, were able to rescue Bethea from the threatening mob, which police said was trying to break down his door. The mob allowed police to take Bethea without incident.

The arresting officer, Ptl. William Hunter was assisted by Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt.

FIVE ARE CHARGED

With Drug Violations. Five teenagers, all from outside Princeton, have been charged with drug violations by Borough police.

Three were arrested at 3:16 Thursday morning while walking on Washington Road near Prospect Avenue. They were stopped by Ptl. Ronald Holliday and Ptl. William Hunter who observed them acting in a suspicious manner. Chief Michael Carnevale reported that the officers were able to determine quickly that the suspects were allegedly under the influence of drugs.

Arrested were John Birkenstamm, 18, of East Windsor and two 17-year old juveniles from Hightstown. All were charged with being under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance. Chief Carnevale said that one of the 17-year-olds had in his possession some hashish and two LSD tablets.

As the police were conducting their on-scene investigation, two other teenagers, members of the same group, tried to walk by. Also arrested were Robert Erikson, 18, of Cranbury and another 17-year-old from Hightstown. They were charged with the same offense.

Erikson and Birkenstamm were later released in their own recognizance after being issued complaint summonses. The others will be processed by the Borough juvenile officer.

SHOPPER IS ROBBED

At Knife Point. A Princeton Township woman was robbed at knife-point last week as she was loading groceries into her car parked behind Davidson's Market in the Park Place lot.

The victim told police that two young men approached her, one brandishing a long-bladed knife. After threatening her, they grabbed her handbag containing $18 and fled. The bag was later recovered by Franklin Township police in a youth center in that community.

One of the suspects was described as 15, 5'6", slim, wearing a beige sweater and dark trousers. The other wore dark clothing and was described as six feet tall and about 20 years old.

Do You Want Cable Television in Princeton?

If you're not sure what Cable TV is . . . Instead of TV signals coming into your house from a roof antenna, you would get television signals from a cable that connects your set directly to a central master antenna and control center.

What that would mean: First, your TV would get generally improved reception (color or black and white) on New York, Philadelphia and New Jersey VHF and UHF channels—perhaps more than 20 channels. Second, extra channels would be set aside for broadcasts which originate in Princeton. Third, the cable company could bring in special sports and events and first-run films for an additional fee.

What it would cost—a typical cable system charges:

1. An installation charge of about $15.
2. A monthly charge of about $6 for one TV set, and $1 more each month for each additional set.

No matter how you feel about Cable TV, please fill out this questionnaire and mail it to Neil Peterson, chairman of the Borough-Township Citizens Committee on Cable TV.

Please Mark an "X" in the Box That Comes Closest to How You Feel

1. How you feel right now about having Cable TV in your own house?

- ☐ I would definitely sign up for it
☐ I would probably sign up
☐ I am not sure yet
☐ I would probably not sign
☐ I would definitely not sign

2. If special sports events (such as Knicks and Rangers games) and first-run movies not available on regular TV were not free, but were available for an additional charge, how would that affect the way you answered above?

- ☐ It would make no difference in the answer I gave above
☐ It would make me less interested in having Cable TV
☐ It would make me more interested in having Cable TV
☐ I am not sure how it would affect my answer

3. If you are interested in Cable TV for your house, why?

- ☐ Better quality reception on regular channels
☐ More channels available
☐ No antenna required
☐ Special local programming
☐ Special sports packages and first-run movies (which will require an additional fee)

4. How many television sets do you have in working order in your household?

- ☐ 1 ☐ 2 ☐ 3 or more

5. How many of your TV sets are for color reception?

- ☐ 1 ☐ 2 ☐ 3 or more

6. How is the quality of reception you get now on TV?

- ☐ Excellent ☐ Good ☐ Just Fair ☐ Poor

7. How many adults live in your household? ()

How many young people age 17 or younger? ()

It Will Be "Professor Cahill" Next Term

It's a long step from a teaching job in Camden's public schools to a faculty post at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School. But then, it's a long step from Camden to the Governor's mansion, and William T. Cahill has made both journeys.

New Jersey's Republican governor, who will go out of office January 15, will become a senior Fellow at the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. He will start work in his new job on Feb. 4.

During the Spring semester, Mr. Cahill will give occasional public lectures, serve as a guest participant at selected seminars and be available for informal discussions with graduate and undergraduate students and faculty. Next fall he will undertake what University officials describe as "a major teaching assignment, the nature of which has not yet been fully determined."

John P. Lewis, Dean of the School, said this week that the governor will spend the spring term getting acquainted with the institution and its students. The governor's salary was not disclosed.

Princeton's President William G. Bowen made the announcement of Governor Cahill's appointment last Friday, although it is reported that the University offered him the post in August, two months after the governor was defeated by Charles Sandman in the Republican primary. A rumor that Mr. Cahill would join the law firm of John F. McCarthy in Princeton is said to be unfounded.

The Cahills have bought a house in Princeton Township at 59 Talbot Lane, north of Mercer Road near the Lawrence Township line. Mr. and Mrs. Cahill and their eight children will make their home there after they move out of "Morven," the governor's mansion on Stockton Street.

Governor Cahill was graduated in 1933 from St. Joseph's College and he taught for four years in the Camden public school system while he was working for his law degree at Rutgers South Jersey Law School. He received that degree in 1937.

His work in law enforcement included brief service in the Federal Bureau of Investigation and about 10 years as prosecutor for the city of Camden, and first assistant county prosecutor of Camden County. In 1951 he served as special deputy attorney general of New Jersey and that year began his legislative career as Assemblyman from Camden County. The First Congressional District (N.J.) elected him as a member of Congress for six terms, and he became New Jersey governor in 1970.

TWO ASSAULT POLICE

In Luncheonette. Two Borough patrolmen were assaulted early Thursday morning in the aftermath of a dog owner's refusal to leave the A&S Luncheonette, 86 Nassau Street.

Patrolmen William Hunter and Ptl. Ronald Holiday responded to a 12:16 call from the owner of the luncheonette, who reported a man with a dog refused to leave the eating area when requested. He also refused when the officers arrived and again asked him to leave.

Instead, Richard Hall, 19, no known address, became abusive and began to utter obscenities. He was charged with resisting arrest, being under the influence of alcohol, creating a disturbance, assaulting Ptl. Holliday and Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli, who had also arrived, and violating a borough ordinance prohibiting a dog in a restaurant.

A friend of Hall's, Floyd Merrill, 21, Old School Lane, Little Rocky Hill, who tried to come to his aid, was charged with being drunk and disorderly and with assault and battery. Each is presently being held in the Mercer County Workhouse in lieu of $5000 bail set by acting Judge William Bunting.

Ptl. Holliday was treated at Princeton Medical Center for injuries to his back and neck.

ON ZONING AGENDA

For Township. Permission to operate a hairdressing salon in a residential area will be on the agenda when the Township Zoning Board meets next Wednesday, November 28, at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

Mary Scarlata, owner of Tavernwood Beauty Manor at 69 Palmer Square, would like to move the beauty shop to the Scarlata home at 442 Mr. Lucas Road. She needs a special permit for such an establishment in an R-2 residential zone.

The agenda also lists Hun School's request for special permit to build a student center. The school is also in a residential zone.

Branch Post Office Open
Princeton's temporary (Christmas mailing) post office is now open for business in the Princeton Shopping Center. It's between the Balf Bakery and the Radio Shack, facing North Harrison.

Hours are 10 to 4:45, five days a week, closed for lunch from 2 until 2:30. So far, the temporary branch post office is closed on Saturdays, but Saturday hours may be instituted as the Christmas mailing season moves on.

Saturday hours will also begin later for the Palmer Square and Alexander Road post offices. Postmaster Basil Ferrara urges observation of "Mail Early Week" — December 3-8.

Association will be asking permission to reduce the number of off-street parking spaces required for the addition to its offices at 499 North Harrison.

The board will again consider the application for a use variance so that physician's offices can be established in the Mansgrove Road house once occupied by architect's offices.

STUDENT CYCLIST HIT

On Nassau Street. A Princeton University student, Francis C. Bagbey, 319 Walker Hall, ran into a car Saturday noon as he was exiting from Chapel Drive and attempting to cross Nassau Street.

Police said that he came from between two cars stopped in a line of traffic next to the curb into the path of a car operated by Nicola Armentis, 45, 43 Chestnut Street.

The student was treated at McCosh Infirmary on campus.

for contusions and abrasions of the head, which he received when the impact knocked him to the roadway. First aid was administered to the victim at the scene by Dr. S.E. Rosenberg.

There were no charges by the investigating officer, Sgt. John J. Bellow.

CONSOLIDATION?

Borough Group Named. Five regulars and two alternates have been named by Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley to the joint consolidation study committee that will explore, with its Township counterparts already appointed, the possibility of marriage between the two Princetons.

The five regulars are Charles Cornforth, Robert Hendry, Barbara Hill, Allen Porter and Robert Wood Tate. Alternates are James Crimmins and Walter Farr.

Mr. Cornforth, 71 Westcott Road, served two terms as a Republican member of Borough Council. He was regarded as Council's financial specialist during his years of tenure.

Mr. Hendry, 15 Chestnut Street, served two terms as a Democratic member of Borough Council. He, too, was one of Council's financial experts.

Mrs. Hill, 118 Leigh Avenue, has lived in Princeton over 45 years, graduating from Princeton High. She is a member of the League of Women Voters and is currently employed by the Singer Company as sales person and sewing teacher.

Mr. Porter, 47 Hawthorne, is an attorney with William Miller. A Princeton University graduate (1963), he worked on the consolidation report for Hightstown-East Windsor. His law practice is concerned with various aspects of municipal law.

Mr. Tate, 73 Stockton, is a civil engineer (Swarthmore 1950) who was vice-president for four years of Marine Colloids, Inc. He did architectural studies at Yale and studied international law at the University of Maryland. He has also been involved with urban development.

Mr. Crimmins, an alternate, lives at 287 Nassau. He is president of Playback Associates, Inc., in New York. A 1956 graduate of Princeton University, he has had experience in publishing (Harper's, Newsweek), teaching and financial planning.

She Works Overtime

Like the mailman out for a Sunday stroll, Lenore Danielson just can't seem to stop when her work day is over.

Mrs. Danielson was introduced to Township Committee Monday night as the new Township Deputy Clerk. That's her full-time job. In her free time, she's on the Rocky Hill Borough Council, elected to a three-year term last year on the Republican ticket.

For more than a decade, Mrs. Danielson was active in the League of Women Voters, serving as president of the Princeton area League in the late '60's, and as a member of the state league's legislative committee after that.

She lives at 13 Toth Lane, Rocky Hill, with her husband, a Princeton University astronomer. She'll be at all Township Committee meetings from now on except for the one that meets the first Monday of the month. That's Borough Council night in Rocky Hill.

Mr. Farr, 7 Bayard Lane, the other alternate, is a professor at NYU Law School, teaching a course called 'Government in Urban Areas.' He has worked with the New Haven Redevelopment Agency and was director of the Model Cities Administration in HUD.

WORKSHOP PLANNED

In Behavior Techniques. A National Workshop in Behavior Modification Techniques for mental health professionals and paraprofessionals will be held at the Center of Continuing Education, Princeton Theological Seminary, during the week of November 26.

The week-long conference is being sponsored by the New Jersey Neuropsychiatric Institute, Princeton, where the Section on Experimental Sociology has developed a new approach which is proving highly effective in the treatment and rehabilitation of drug addicts, alcoholics, and mental patients, and is also showing promise in social rehabilitation of prison inmates. Initiated 18 months ago as an experimental program among patients, the results were so successful that there was an immediate demand from all over the state for special staff training programs to enable agencies to initiate similar programs in their own communities.

SPIRIT OF '76

Come to a Meeting. Fife and drum aren't necessary, but a good rousing interest in the 1976 Bicentennial will help.

Next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall, the Princeton Community Bicentennial Committee will hold a public meeting and everybody is invited to come.

Individuals and representatives of organizations are asked to What's a zippy little mid-engine coupe like the Porsche 914 doing in a stop-and-go place like the big city?

Doing what comes naturally, naturally.

Like using its fuel-injected 2.0-liter engine (which means none of the carburetor adjustments you have with most other sporty cars) for plenty of go when the light turns green.

And getting plenty of stop from its 4-wheel disc brakes when the light turns red.

And taking the bump out of potholes and manholes with its front-wheel independent torsion bar suspension.

And not having to look very hard for a place to park. (There's always enough room for a 914.)

Or having to look very often for a place to buy gas. (The 911 is a gas-sipper. Not a gas-guzzler.)

Nor will it boil over in cross-town traffic. The engine is air-cooled.

And of course the Porsche 911 has always been known for its cornering. With its mid-engine design and rack-and-pinion steering.

And what has more corners than a city?

Raymond E. Rudy, 77, of 26 Moore Street, died November 16 at the Princeton Medical Center. He retired in 1962 as Professor of Music at Rutgers and Douglass College.

Born in Bellevue, Kentucky, he lived in Princeton the past 42 years. He began his teaching career at Rutgers in 1924.

He retired in 1967 as organist and choir master of Trinity Episcopal Church. He also worked as an organist for the Chapel of Intercession in New York, the music department of the Princeton Theological Seminary, and Princeton Day School.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Catherine Rudy, two daughters, Mrs. Edmund Schonheiter of Whitehouse Station and Miss Suzanne Rudy of Princeton; and three grandchildren.

A memorial service was held at Trinity Episcopal Church. Interment was in All Saints' Cemetery.

Contributions may be made to the Trinity Choir, Trinity Church.

James E. Hutfish, 101, of 2360 Woodlawn Circle, St. Petersburg, Florida, died November 19 in St. Petersburg. He was a member of one of the first families in Mercer County, and was one of the leading citizens of Lawrenceville.

Born in Franklin Park, he lived in Lawrenceville until his retirement.

In 1892 he bought the first camera in Lawrenceville, and some of his photographs are included in the town history entitled, "Old Lawrenceville, Early Homes and People."

In 1893 he bought the first bicycle with pneumatic tires in Lawrenceville, and rode it, according to area historians, to the Chicago World's Fair. He owned the first electric motor water pump and with it he began an operation that grew into the Lawrenceville Water Company.

He purchased a Cadillac in 1904 to become the first automobile owner in Lawrenceville.

Operated Store. In 1914 he first telephone exchange in the town was located in the store which he owned and operated.

He was a charter member of the Lawrenceville Fire Company, a member of the Lawrenceville grange, and participated in the Society for the Pursuit and Detection of Horse Thieves, Robbers and Incendiaries, one of many vigilante groups then common in the area.

The husband of the late Mary Howell Hutfish, he is survived by a son, Benjamin E. of Newark, a grandson and a great-granddaughter.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 2 in the Blackwell Memorial Home, Pennington. Interment will be in Lawrenceville Cemetery.

Bayard Jordan Sr., 86, of Route 27, died November 16 in the Merwick Unit of the Princeton Medical Center. He was a retired employee of the Princeton University Store.

Born in Princeton, he was a lifelong resident of this area. He served as a deacon and an elder of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church.

He was a past master of Aaron Lodge No. 9 F & AM, a member of King David Chapter No. 6 of Royal Arch Masons, Douglas Com-mandery No. 10, Knights of Templar, Ophir Consistory No. 48, and an honorary past potentate of Khulu Temple No. 120 of the Shrine.

Surviving are his son, Bayard Jordan Jr., with whom he lived, and a grand-daughter, Mrs. Jo Ann Gillens of Clear, Alabama.

The funeral was held at the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery.

George Conover, 78, of Hopewell-Pennington Road, Hopewell, died November 16 in the Merwick Unit of the Princeton Medical Center.

A native of Princeton, he was formerly employed by the Princeton Theological Seminary.

He was the husband of the late Ida Booz Conover and a veteran of World War I.

Surviving are one son, George Jr. of East Brunswick; three daughters, Mrs. Irene Fouratt of Hopewell, Mrs. Bertha Carson of Somerset, and Mrs. Alice Seeley of Miami, Florida; one sister, Mrs. Myrtle Van Pelt of Trenton; 10 grandchildren; and eight great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held in Hopewell. Interment was in Greenwood Cemetery, Trenton.

Mrs. Emma M. Craft Miller, and 15 great-grandchildren 70, of Route 31, Pennington. A service was held in Yardley. Interment was in Newtown Cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, Augustus C. Miller, three sons, Augustus G. of Yardville, Charles A. Pennington and Elmer L. of Yardley, Pa.; two daughters, Mrs. Edith Ban-croft of Morrisville, Pa., and Mrs. Dorothy E. Mattingly of Lincoln, Illinois; two brothers, Charles C. Craft of Yardley and Edward H. Craft of North Wales, Pa.; 20 grandchildren;

Robert W. Wood Jr., 79, of 10 Fairview Avenue, died November 20 in the Merwick Unit of the Princeton Medical Center. He fought with the French Army and received the Croix de Guerre in World War I.

The son of the late physicist Professor Robert W. Wood, he was great-grandson of Fisher.

William K. Selden is Committee chairman. Members are James M. Banner Jr., George W. Conover, Elric J. Endersby, Edith V. Francis and Constance Greiff.

STUART FAIR RETURNS

Date December 1. A Christmas bazaar that has become a holiday tradition in the Princeton area will again be held at the Stuart Country Day School, Saturday, December 1, from 10 to 5.

New to the affair will be an "over 18 room," featuring a fine selection of red and white wines. As guests relax sipping wine, there will be a tempting variety of domestic and imported cheeses.

Talented craftsmen from the area will exhibit and sell pottery, ceramics, batik pictures, stuffed animals, macrame, trapunto, plexiglass mats, beeswax candles, jewelry, desk sets and other gift items.

Rare books for collectors will line the shelves of the "Old Book Shop" in the school auditorium. First editions, prints, records and paperbacks will also be sold. The shop will stay open Sunday, December 2, from 10-4.

Stuart's live auction, conducted by John Pinelli, will feature old silver, china, glassware and furniture.

Baby-sitting, Terrariums, a new feature of the '73 bazaar, will also be sold. Della Rabia wreaths, Williamsburg-inspired Christmas decorations and poinsettias will be on order for Christmas delivery.

Lunch will be served in the school cafeteria. Entertainment for children and a baby-sitting service will be provided.

YOUTH SUPPORT URGED

Fund Drive Begins. The future of several vital programs affecting Princeton area youth depends on the success of the Princeton Youth Fund's current campaign to raise money, according to Fred Blaicher, Youth Fund chairman.

"We are faced with requests for support amounting to $29,000," Mr. Blaicher stated as the appeal for private donations was launched last week. "Until the final returns of contributions are in, we cannot make a final decision on how to allocate supporting funds."

Preliminary approval by the Youth Fund has been given to support programs of the Princeton Youth Center, Street Theater, Career Development Awards and the Princeton Summer Camp in Blairstown.

Youth Fund support for deserving activities this past year totalled $24,900, including Flight II, $8,500; Princeton Youth Center, $2,500; Career Development Awards, $7,500; Street Theater, $1,300; Princeton Summer Camp, $2,500; and the Youth Resources Panel Study, $2,600.

The grant of $2,600 to the Youth Resources Panel of the Princeton Area Council of Community Services will underwrite a 13-week survey of what services are now available for grades 8 through 12 what youth thinks of those programs, what is missing from the community and how it should be provided.

Counseling Services. The Princeton Youth Center needs funds to support its expanded career counseling services that help black students make occupational decisions. Now that the Center's career counseling program has a full-time counselor, more students are being reached earlier and informed about the many opportunities available to them.

The Street Theater, since its 1971 beginnings, has involved over 200 youths from 11 to 24 in its free drama workshops and summer play productions.

The Career Development Awards program, now in its fourth year, encourages young people not interested in four-year academic colleges to concentrate on a skill or trade in a one or two-year program. Eighteen youths were given financial assistance this past year.

The Princeton Summer Camp at Blairstown has increasingly become a joint Community-University facility, focusing on minority group youngsters from the Princeton-Trenton-Hightstown area.

Tax-free donations to help support these programs may be sent to Princeton Youth Fund, C. B. Anderson, Treasurer, P.O. Box 39, Princeton, N.J.

DECEMBER 1 BIG DAY

For Montgomery Township. Saturday, December 1, is an important day for Montgomery Township and its friends. The annual Christmas Carol Shoppe, sponsored by the Montgomery Women's Club, will be held at the Harlingen reformed Church on Route 206, Belle Mead, from 10 to 3. All money earned from the bazaar is donated to civic and educational charities of the Township.

Also on that day, Santa Claus will make his appearance at the Montgomery Shopping Center at 12 noon on a fire engine driven by members of Montgomery Volunteer Fire Company No. 1. He will be given the key to the city by Montgomery Mayor Gerald Bowdren and will then lead a motorcade to the Christmas Carol Shoppe. Once inside, Santa will listen to each child's Christmas list and give out candy while pictures are taken.

The Shoppe will offer hundreds of gifts for people to buy for Christmas presents as well as many exciting bargains.

Tables featuring everything from pinecone wreaths to clothespin people to needlepoint Santas will be maintained by a crew of Women's Club members, including Mrs. Edwin Carboni, Mrs. Charles Lancelot, Mrs. Nelson Noel, Mrs. Raymond Hunt, Mrs. Richard Jamieson, Mrs. Eugene Sansone, Mrs. Robert Wood, Mrs. Enos Parsell, Mrs. Hoyt Masterton, Mrs. Graham Morbey, Mrs. James Tietjen, Mrs. Gerald Bowdren and Mrs. Al Kamperman. The Snack Shoppe will open at 10 with coffee, tea and coffee cake. At lunch time it will provide sandwiches, hot dogs, milk, soda, coffee and cake.

important work at the University Art Museum is all the more important for its setting and manner of display. In a richly documented environment, the painting is surrounded by drawings by the artist; large, well-mounted photographs of many of the companion pieces involved in the famous transaction, a letter of inventory of the trade written by the artist, and a large collection of prints and reproductions of other works by other artists in which the motif of the leopards was employed. Rubens' composition of the beasts apparently set a standard which carried itself beyond national boundaries. Leopards in identical posture were employed by Breughel.

In each drawing, pattern and space are creatively developed to heighten the effect of the work, interacting with richly worked tonal passages. The delicacy of the trees is contrasted with the great volume of the rocks, and textural effects are used to intensify the sense of the subject.

The artist's obvious love of his subject coupled with a virtuoso display of technique make the viewer feel as if he is seeing nature for the very first time.

Rubens. In the early 17th century Sir Dudley Carleton and Peter Paul Rubens negotiated a trade of works by the well-known painter for Sir Dudley's collection of antiquities. Among the paintings included was "The Leopards". This painting, with its powerfully developed animal subject, became a major artistic influence throughout Europe in succeeding decades.

As is the case with many major works, this monumental painting ultimately disappeared from public view and record, and has only recently been rediscovered.

About Time for Traffic Light.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Your recent report brings the good news that by next August Princeton may have a traffic signal at the intersection of Kingston Road with Snowden and Riverside. As an eyewitness of accident after accident at this intersection—and many near misses—may I join other Princeton residents in congratulating the State Commissioner of Transportation for giving his attention to this matter. And let us hope also that he will commence tests at Prospect and Harrison.

Thoughts on Tenure.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
At its last regular meeting the Princeton Regional Board of Education passed a resolution setting guidelines to limit the percentage of teachers to whom tenure should be granted.

This was in response to a continuing increase in this percentage which presently is close to 80 per cent. It has been feared that this ratio will go even higher and that this would restrict the freedom to hire promising young teachers with new ideas.

If we grant this premise (and considerations of teacher mix and turn-over figures suggest that the percentage figure must have reached a plateau) the solution adopted misses the main point: The object is to obtain the best possible faculty and the solution is to give tenure only to clearly outstanding teachers. Once this is done, the percentage figure will take care of itself.

The failure to apply adequate standards is the responsibility of both the board and the administration. It requires that the recently developed procedures for hiring and evaluation of teachers be applied thoroughly and carefully by the administrators involved.

It also requires, however, that the board act on contract renewals only if they have been convinced that they have been given enough information to determine that the teacher is outstanding.

Requests to AID Answered.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
The Agency for International Development (AID) has recently received several hundred letters from Princeton residents asking that AID take immediate action to prevent mass starvation in the Sahelian Zone of Central-West Africa. Mass starvation, the letters state, is threatened because of the effects of a severe drought.

The Agency for International Development has been taking immediate action to alleviate the effects of the drought in the Sahel for over a year—and that represents only special drought emergency relief activities. In that year, the U.S. Government has delivered, or is committed to deliver, more than half-a-billion pounds of grain, as well as some $6.5 million of non-food disaster relief assistance. The total value of the United States emergency assistance is close to $50 million, about one-third of total world relief to date and the largest single contribution.

Major and extraordinary efforts by the international donor community and the affected nations have averted the threat of mass starvation in the Sahel. While the present danger has been met, it now appears the 1973 harvests, just beginning, will be considerably less than needed. Coupled with the increase in urban populations, as destitute people flock to the cities, the need for continued and large shipments of donated grain in 1973-74 appears certain. The United States, along with the rest of the international donor community will continue to help the stricken Sahelian countries meet their emergency needs.

At the same time as we are focusing on immediate, life-sustaining activities, A.I.D. also has a task force working on ways and means of maximizing each country's 1974 harvest. And additional A.I.D. groups are currently examining the medium- and longer-term problems of preserving and developing these arid lands. All of the above activities are taking place with the full support and cooperation of the affected nations, and the international donor community.

A number of American voluntary agencies are also involved in drought relief programs in the Sahel. Your readers who would like more information on voluntary agency efforts might wish to contact any of the following: CARE, Church World Service and Catholic Relief Service, in New York City; AFRICARE, in Washington, D.C.; and the American Friends Service Committee, in Philadelphia. These groups, and others have programs to assist the stricken countries.

Mass starvation in the Sahel has been averted. No one, however, is relaxing, for the emergency is far from over. Through a great deal of hard work and international cooperation, much has been accomplished. Much remains to be done.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The announcement carried in last week's papers of screening tests on December 9 for residents of the Borough and Township who are 65 years and over is an outstanding example of community cooperation.

We congratulate

The Rising Generation

Just an edge over the half-way mark --- that's the current status of Princeton's United Fund-Red Cross drive. This week's figures show $320,316 in cash and pledges. The goal is $635,000 for 1973's campaign.

Caring about youth -- almost every one of the 20 agencies of the Princeton United Fund-Red Cross is directly and enthusiastically dedicated to youth.

Happy, healthy, growing youth -- in the Princeton Nursery School, the Princeton Youth Center, the Boy and Girl Scout Councils, the Hightstown Day Care Center, the YM-YWCA's. Or troubled youth in need of what vital helping voice --- Family Service agencies, the Florence Crittenton Home, Child Guidance, the Retarded Children's Home, the Children's Home Society.

Whatever the need, whatever the age, these agencies are working, through paid professionals and volunteers, to make things better for the Rising Generation of Princeton area youth.

CREDIT CLAIM UPHOLD

Woman Wins Over Bank. The New Jersey Division on Civil Rights has reached separate agreements with two financial institutions which will make it easier for women to obtain credit.

The Kingston branch of the Franklin State Bank and the City Federal Savings and Loan Association of Elizabeth both agree that the women should be given the same opportunities as are men in loan considerations. Franklin State Bank specifically agreed that marital status cannot be given any weight whatsoever in determining the eligibility of a potential applicant for any loan.

The agreement was made in settlement to a claim by Cynthia Jacob of Kingston that the bank refused to grant her an unsecured installment loan without her husband's signature. Ms. Jacob, who brought her complaint to the civil rights division, said she should have been granted the loan without her husband acting as a co-signer because she possesses significant assets in her own name.

At one point, negotiations with the Franklin State Bank broke down, and the case went to public hearing last March. After one day of hearing however, negotiations resumed and an agreement was reached.

During the hearing, Charles F. West, a former deputy regional administrator of national banks for the Second National Bank Region of New York City, which includes national banks in New Jersey, testified that there is a general policy in the banking industry to require signatures of both husband and wife for unsecured installment loans, regardless of each individual's personal assets.

The civil rights agency contended this general policy is discriminatory. The agency maintains that policies disregarding wife's income in family loan considerations is discriminatory as well.

SALES PERSON NAMES

To Henderson Staff, Mrs. Gilda K. Aronovic has joined the real estate firm of John T. Henderson, Inc., as a sales associate.

A graduate of Brooklyn College and a former math teacher in New York, Mrs. Aronovic has taught Hebrew and Jewish studies at the Princeton Jewish Center. She is a member of B'nai B'rith Women and the Princeton Art Association.

Mrs. Aronovic has also exhibited paintings at the McCarter Theatre, the Princeton Nursing Home and, under the auspices of Art Exhibition Consultants, at Systemedics and at Gallup and Robinson.

She will be based in Henderson's Princeton office at 353 Nassau Street.

NEW FIRM MOVES HERE

Opens in Princeton Junction. The Princeton area Loan Association of Elizabeth welcomed the Metal Powder Industries Federation and the American Powder Metallurgy Institute on Tuesday as one of its newest corporate residents. A "ribbon cutting and opening" ceremony took place at the new offices in Princeton Junction at 44 Princeton-Hightstown Road. Kempton H. Roll, Executive Director of the Federation and the Institute; Mel Firman, Mayor of West Windsor; Walter Foster, President of the Nassau Savings and Loan Association, and officials from the P-M industry participated.

The Federation, founded in New York in 1946, comprises six trade associations that represent the international metal powder producing and consuming industries. Among its 199 member companies from 15 countries are some of the world's largest corporations.

The Federation and Institute employ a staff of 10 full time. Mr. Roll, who heads both MPIF and APMI, relocated with his wife Jean from Westport, Conn. They are living in Princeton Junction and will move to a new townhouse in Princeton during the spring of 1974.

The mailing address of the Federation and the Institute is P.O. Box 2054, Princeton; the telephone number, 799-3300.

Art in Princeton

Poussin, Hollar and Varan among others.

The museum is to be complemented on its new display methods apparent in recent exhibitions, which include instructive texts and background material. A much richer viewing experience and a sense of the artistic dynamism involved in the works are the happy results.

Prints and Drawings. The second half of the 19th century was a renaissance for the etching. Many artists began to use this more disciplined medium, and the cultural world of the day responded with great enthusiasm. The poet Baudelaire encouraged the formation of the Societe des Aquafortistes. Through the society major artists were encouraged to explore and develop their work in etching and drypoint.

A sampling of these works in the current display, "19th Century Realists", in the Prints and Drawings Gallery of the University Art Museum includes the work of Daumier, Manet, Corot, Whistler and lesser known but often equally able artists of the period. Illustrative, decorative and political works are included, and, despite the restrictions and the techniques necessary to the use of this highly controlled medium, each artist employed it as a means of strong personal expression.

MCCARTER THEATRE

The Sixth Annual Juried Graphics Exhibition of the Princeton Art Association almost fills the upstairs lobby. In a new and commendable approach to the juried show, judges Margot Devereux and Roman Viesulas selected only the works they considered suitable for the display, rather than let the size of the exhibition space determine the quality of the show. They are to be complimented for their high standards; the resulting exhibition is a credit to the jury, the artists and to graphics in the Princeton Community.

While there is a sparse feeling to the collection, there is also enough space surrounding the works to allow the viewer an undisturbed look at each of the graphics. Thus we can appreciate the skill with which the varying works are developed. Drawings, collographs and intaglio prints in many different technical forms provide a rich but restrained show.

THE LOFT GALLERY

Marsha Kleinman and Conrad Newman present their view of the world of sports. Drawing by Ms. Kleinman and paintings by Mr. Newman cover such enterprises as sailing, scuba diving, little league, tennis and a myriad of other activities.

The drawings are sensitive and well executed in several different media. Highly representational paintings in oil and acrylic maintain an athletic vigor in their brushwork and use of paint.

RECEPTION GIVEN

David Steadman to Leave. David Steadman, who contributed to the steady growth of the Princeton University Art Museum's exhibit program during his two years on the Museum, is leaving for a new post in Claremont, California. Mr. Steadman has been Associate Director of the Art Museum under Peter Bunnell, who assumed the Directorship in June of this year.

Mr. Steadman and his wife Kathy were honored Monday at a reception in the Museum's Morton Gallery, given by the Executive Board of The Friends of the Art Museum and the University League's Museum Guides.

He joined the Museum in 1971 as Administrative Assistant to Patrick J. Kelleher and served as Acting Director during Prof. Kelleher's sabbatical and after his retirement as Director. He will join the Claremont Colleges as Director of the art galleries and Professor of Art History at Pomona.

During his tenure he completed negotiations for the Norton Simon loan exhibit, arranged the successful Alumni Art Exhibit and many others, including the current Tibera and Rubens shows, and he saw attendance at the Museum increase steadily.

At the farewell reception, to which the Museum Staff and Art department faculty were also invited, Prof. Hensselaer W. Lee presented the honored guest with a copy of "The Rohan Master," the recently published facsimile of the illuminated manuscript book in the Morgan Library, on behalf of The Friends.

For the Steadmans, the move to California with their two small children will be "going home." Honolulu-born David Steadman met San Franciscan Kathy at Berkeley, when both were students. After December 14 their address will be P.O. Box 819, Claremont, Calif., 91711.

EXHIBITS SCHEDULED

At Studio on Canal. An exhibition of acrylics and oils by Dr. Bani R. Banerjee will be held at the Studio on the Canal, beginning Sunday, November 25, and will continue through December 9.

Dr. Banerjee was born in India and grew up in Burma. His undergraduate years were spent in Calcutta, India, and he is presently Assistant Director of Research, at Ingersoll-Rand in Princeton.

He has published more than 100 papers in a variety of fields. He has had extensive experience in the performance, execution, direction and administration of Government Contract Research, having served in the Armed Forces. A resident of Montgomery Township, he is President of the Montgomery Township Concerned Citizens Group which is involved with the betterment of the community.

PRIMITIVES ON VIEW

From Town, Country. An American primitive who learned about colors "from the church, the birds and the streets" will be featured in the next exhibit at the Squibb Gallery, Lawrenceville Road.

Ralph Fasanella, who has achieved national fame for his paintings, does elaborate interiors and street scenes teeming with life, color and people. A former labor organizer, now a service station owner, he frequently paints workmen and factories as he has known them all his life. Many experts regard him as the best primitive artist since Grandma Moses.

With Mr. Fasanella in the show will be Lillian Jones, a primitive artist whose works are usually evocative of the countryside, in contrast to Mr. Fasanella's urban scenes. Lillian Jones has been a resident of Princeton for the past three years and one of her paintings on view at Squibb depicts a local apple orchard at cidertime.

Her "Jersey Shore," from 1960, shows the area around Atlantic Highlands as she remembers it from childhood. Most of her other paintings recall scenes around Newtown, Connecticut, her former home.

Squibb's gallery is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Save Fuel, but Don't Burn a Book

Nippy autumn evenings, a roaring fireplace turned 'way up and the thermostat turned 'way down and a book in hand....

Princeton's public librarian, Robert Staples, wanted to take home Lillian Hellman's "Pentimento" last weekend, but there were 24 reserves on it from Princeton readers, so the librarians wouldn't let him have a copy. The book is sending readers back to Miss Hellman's earlier books, Mr. Staples reports, although not so much to her plays.

"Portrait of a Marriage," Nigel Nicolson's frank biography of his parents' life with each other and with others, is a coming favorite with Princeton readers. So, in quite another vein, is Walter Kaufman's "Without Guilt of Justice." Heavy going, Mr. Staples reports, but many readers find it rewarding.

Mr. Staples always winces when he has to say that "How to be Your Own Best Friend" is such a best-seller at his circulation desk. He regards the book as shallow, childish and candy-coated. Oh, well....

His final suggestion for a weekend of good, old-fashioned reading—"a nice, normal traditional piece of writing"—is Thornton Wilder's new book, "Theophilus North." Another log for the fire, please.

News Of The CHURCHES

GIRLS CHORUS TO SING

At Princeton Baptist. The Hamilton Squares Singers, a chorus of 40 teenaged girls, will sing at the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday of the Princeton Baptist Church of Penns Neck.

Accompanied by instrumentalists, the groups present a religious message through contemporary gospel music and also personal testimonies.

Princeton Baptist is located at the circle on Route 1 and Washington Road. The church and its new pastor, Rev. Donald L. Snyder, extend an invitation to all who would like to attend.

BIBLICAL FILM SET

For Sunday Showing. "Christ Is Born", a color film depicting the events surrounding the birth of Jesus Christ, will be shown at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at the Princeton Church of Christ, 33 River Road. The film is free and open to the public.

The 54-minute movie, filmed on actual historic sites in the Holy Land, includes scenes depicting the history of the Hebrew people from the time of Abraham to the era of Jewish subjugation to the will of Rome.

Presenting the Nativity as history, the film is suitable for viewing by members of all faiths. It features John Huston reading from the Bible and was produced by John Secondari for ABC's Peabody Award-winning "Saga of Western Man" series. It also received the Golden Eagle Award, CINE, and the Gabriel Award, Catholic Broadcasters.

BULLETIN NOTES

Traditional Thanksgiving services will be held at 11 a.m.

at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 16 Bayard Lane. A solo "Hymn of Praise" by Schubert will be sung by Herbert Hunsberger of Cranbury, accompanied by the organist, Stephen Waters.

The guest preacher Sunday at 11 a.m. at the Kingston Presbyterian Church will be the Rev. Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen, Dean Emeritus of Princeton Theological Seminary. His sermon topic will be "Reclothe Us In Our Rightful Minds."

A Harvest Home Dinner sponsored by the First Baptist Church Missionary Society will be held Thursday, November 29, from noon until 6 at the First Baptist Church, John Street and Avalon Place. Donation is $2.50.

Bruce Beck, a senior in the master of divinity program at the Princeton Theological Seminary, will present a recital of songs by Ralph Vaughn Williams, Friday, November 30, at 7:30 in the Campus Center auditorium. He will be accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Mary Sweazey.

On Saturday, December 1, from 5 to 7 p.m., the Women's Guild of the First Reformed Church of Rocky Hill will serve a roast beef dinner. Dinner donations are $3.50 for adults and $1.75 for children. The church will also hold its annual Christmas bazaar that day, beginning at 11:30.

Obituaries

Ames, the first representative from Massachusetts to the United States Congress.

Immediately following his graduation from Harvard in 1916, he joined the American ambulance corps serving in France and on the Salonika Front on Albania. He later enlisted in the French Army, and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the field artillery.

Following the war he worked for the American Hotel Company and later with the Bowman-Biltmore chain. He and Judson Philips co-authored the book, "Hold 'Em Girls, the Intelligent Women's Guide to Men and Football."

He is survived by his wife, Olivia Saunders Wood, and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Bogert. A private interment was arranged by the Kimble Funeral Home. Contributions may be made to the Robert W. Wood Jr. Memorial Fund at the Princeton Medical Center.

Joseph Ruggear, 84, of 161 Washington Street, Rocky Hill, died November 13 in the Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Castelonova, Italy, he had been a resident of Rocky Hill for 67 years. He was a landscape gardener and owner and operator for more than 40 years of Joe's Barber Shop in Rocky Hill.

Survivors include his wife Mary E. Ruggear; one daughter, Mrs. Rose Panicaro of Rocky Hill; two sons, Frank J. of Havertown, Pa., and Albert J. of Broomall, Pa.; one sister, Mrs. Rose Fuino of Irvington; seven grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

A Mass of Resurrection was celebrated at St. Paul's Church, Princeton. Interment was at Rocky Hill Cemetery under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Contributions may be made to St. James Church, Rocky Hill.

Mrs. Ellen L. Musson, 84, formerly of Princeton, died October 31 in Clearwater, Florida.

She moved from Princeton 29 years ago to Florida, where her last address was 1850 Kendall Drive, Clearwater.

Surviving are two sons, Ken of Tampa and Geoffrey of Silver Spring, Maryland; two daughters, Mrs. Joy Daniels of Clearwater and Mrs. Gwendolyn Rigg of Princeton; a brother, Harry Glover of Largo, Florida; two sisters, Mrs. Ethel Lee of Clearwater and Mrs. Olive Herington of Largo; six grandchildren; and nine great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held at the Princeton Chapel in Clearwater.

FUND DRIVE UNDER WAY Recordings For Blind. The Princeton Unit of Recording for the Blind, one of 27 such production units scattered across the United States, is now conducting its annual fund-raising campaign.

Mrs. John Mulligan, chairman of the Princeton Board of R.F.B., has been gathering the assistance of Board members, volunteers and others who frequent the studio at 100 Stockton Street, to stuff envelopes, write notes to friends and make residents aware of this service to blind students.

Recordings are made by Recording For The Blind in every field of study, no matter how difficult or specialized.

The student receives recorded books on loan, and returns them to the organization when he has finished using them. The entire service is free, including mailing costs.

To date, during the year 1972-73, volunteers at the Princeton Unit have recorded 258 texts, a total of 4,635 reading hours.

Taped installments are sent directly to waiting students and a master copy is stored at the organization's national headquarters in New York, where individual taped copies are duplicated promptly for all students requesting them in the future.

Depends on gifts. Mrs. Mulligan emphasizes that the Princeton Unit of Recording For The Blind depends entirely on local gifts for support of its budget. The 1973-74 goal of $31,000 in contributions will cover all expenses including one which has jumped 200 percent in the past year: purchase and maintenance of machines.

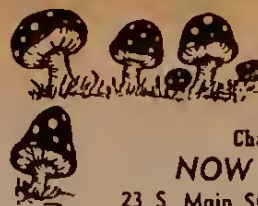

Although the Princeton studio leads all other units in the country in increased production, many requests for books must be turned down for lack of recording space and machines.

Tax-deductible contributions should be sent to: Recording For The Blind, Inc., 100 Stockton Street,

Featured in HOUSE & GARDEN:

"WATCHING THE CONTOUR AND DRAMA OF A SITE...Securely gripped to the side of a steep rocky terrain, the house reaches as high as the trees. Windows throughout let in streams of sunlight...Stairway balconies and half walls create interior landscapes of rooms beyond rooms. Similarity of use dictated the room groupings which create maximum privacy and peace...Challenged by the spectacular site architect J. Robert Hillier designed a house that capitalizes on its setting and is equally spectacular." Details on request

THE PROPER VICTORIANS designed this Princeton townhouse for the comfortable living and gracious entertaining of their generation. Later generations have loved it, maintained it and modernized the kitchen so a large family of this generation can still live comfortably and entertain graciously in it! Handsome paneled living room with bay window and large sunny dining room, both overlooking the big raised terrace and garden; 7 bedrooms; 3½ baths plus servants' quarters; high ceilings; fireplaces galore; double garage with 2 rooms and lavatory (future family room or pool cabana...); lovely big lot; impeccable location! $175,000

CRANBURY COLONIAL. Lovely trees (if we sketched them all, you couldn't see the house) and handsome greenery surround this highly liveable, shining clean traditional home. 7 rooms; 2½ baths; fenced pool. A pretty house in a pretty village! $85,000

SPORTS Go- Round

by JOHN SUTTON

The human cannonball—ever seen this stunt?—used to rank high among the number one interests in any circus. The record distance for firing a human from a cannon, according to a leading authority, is 175 feet. The human was one Emanuel Zacchini when he worked for the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus in 1940. His velocity was as high as 145 miles per hour!

Have you ever seen the great array of sporting goods at SPORTS 'N' THINGS, Montgomery Shopping Center, Rt. 206 & 518, 924-8162? Why not stop by soon and take a look. Visit our Hobby Center, check our complete tennis clothing dept., and see our wide selection of bikes. Hours: 10-6 Mon-Wed; 10-9 Thur, Fri; 10-6 Sat; 10-2 Sun.

HELPFUL HINT:

Proper liming and regular fertilizing of lawns should help them withstand an onslaught of crabgrass.

IMMEDIATE POSSESSION — You can move right into this spotless 4 bedroom Cope Cod in Hopewell Borough that's tucked away on a lot over 300 ft. deep with many mature trees and shrubs. Full heated basement, 2 car garage. A lot of value for only $49,900

OWNER HEADING TO FLORIDA — And offers this sprawling 3 bedroom ranch in the popular "Hickory Hills." Just a short pleasant walk to Trenton State campus. 2 full baths, 3 built-in air conditioners, wall to wall carpeting, and many other custom extras. With approximately 1 1/2 acre of land. And it's only in the middle 40's.

HOPEWELL TWP. Sprawling custom built ranch in a beautiful garden setting. Seven rooms, 2 baths, stone fireplace, full basement and two car garage. Immediate possession. Assumable 80% mortgage if qualified. Full price $57,500

WEST AMWELL TWP. Very attractive 5 bedroom Cope Cod, stone and aluminum siding for low maintenance. 32 foot living room with stone fireplace, formal dining room, full basement with stone fireplace, 1 acre of land with blocktop drive and attractive stone walls. $59,000

FARMER OR INVESTOR. 24 acres in West Amwell with long road frontage. Large 100 year old Colonial, 7 rooms, 2 1/2 baths, open beams, wide pine floors, 3 fireplaces, 20x40 in-ground pool, excellent for $99,500

STONE CONTEMPORARY — The ultimate in prime living is yours here in this 11 room, 4 1/2 bath with much glass to enjoy the magnificent setting. Sets 700 ft. back for privacy with a stocked pond, beautiful pines and flowering dogwood. Features 23x26 ft. sunken living room with cathedral ceilings, and massive stone fireplace. A huge family room with stone fireplace on lower level overlooking spacious flagstone patio and a 20x40 in-ground pool. Available with 10 acres or up to 26 acres. Call us for details.

THE HARBOURTON HILLS — Where you can enjoy complete country living on 2 acres with a delightful view from every window in this handsome brick and frame colonial that provides 7 rooms, 2 1/2 baths, including a richly paneled family room with brick fireplace. Full basement and oversized 2 car garage. A great home in a perfect location. $68,600

FOR FAMILY LIVING — (New Listing) We recommend this homey 3 bedroom Cope Cod with open beams in the living room and a 22' modern kitchen that's loaded with cabinets and matching Cappertone appliances. Large glass doors that lead to a carpeted 16x16 enclosed patio, spacious family room, and a canopy. There's a lot here for only $34,900. So hurry.

A YOUNG FAMILY — (New Listing) Can live here in fine style. This immaculate 3 bedroom ranch provides an ultra modern kitchen and formal dining room plus a finished basement and its' on a fenced tree shaded lot. A great investment for only $31,900

CONQUER SPACE — On Perry Dr. we just listed a massive 9 room, 2 1/2 bath expanded ranch. It's on 1 acre of land with 3 acres of woods in the rear that affords the privacy of a country estate. The basement is ballroom size, complete with fireplace and top-notch wet bar. There's also a large 2 car garage and black top drive. It needs some interior decorating but the price is reasonable at only $64,900

A HONEY FOR THIS MONEY — (New Listing) You'll have to agree this beautifully kept colonial in Lawrence Township with 7 light and airy rooms which include a large, bright and cheerful kitchen, and a formal dining room, beamed family room with plush wall to wall carpeting, full basement and 2 car garage. GET ME TO THE CHURCH ON TIME

You should have no trouble getting to the church, the Penn Central station, or R.C.A. from this Penns Neck 2-story. Situated on a quiet street, it offers 6 rooms, one bath, glazed porch, fireplace, basement, 2-car garage, and a very nice lot.

WOULDN'T IT BE LOVERLY

to find a house in Princeton Township, on Carnegie Lake, at a modest price? This is an older, 1½-story home with 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, and a most attractive lot.

$55,700

WITH A LITTLE BIT OF LUCK

you can be living in this delightful Penn View Heights Colonial before the new year. It features 9 rooms, 3½ baths, a fireplace, central air, basement, 2-car garage, and a high, well-landscaped lot in a charming neighborhood.

$96,500

THE RAIN IN SPAIN

may fall mainly in the plain; in Japan it's less selective. But here's a home that's distinctively Japanese in style yet will be enjoyed no matter what the weather or time of year. It has 9 rooms, 2½ baths, raised-hearth fireplace, central air conditioning, a 10 X 30 balcony screened porch, 2-car carport, Sylvan pool, and Japanese gardens. All this on an unusually pretty lot in a convenient-to-town Princeton Township location.

WHY CAN'T THE ENGLISH

send us a few more houses like this one? No, unlike London Bridge it wasn't shipped over piece by piece—in fact, its stone walls were quarried right here in Princeton. But its design, as an English Manor House, is an impressive masterpiece. A unique property, it is situated in Princeton Borough's western end.

PRINCETON TOWNHOUSE

For a large family that want to be near the University and within walking distance of town, we have just listed a 6 bedroom home in the middle of Princeton. Living room with fireplace, dining room with china cabinets, kitchen with pantry and a full basement which could be converted to family use. Four bedrooms are on the second floor and two are on the third. The lot is small, but it's only a block away from the park. The neighborhood is full of children some of whom roller skate in the street. How safe can you be? $54,000

This view is from the inside of our creatively designed contemporary villa nestled in a Montgomery Twp. country setting overlooking Bedens Brook. Both living room and family room have fireplaces while the master suite is fit for a princess. A tropical paradise in a setting near Princeton. $155,000

In the Princeton Western Section convenient to town and gown is a lovely Dutch Colonial style home with four bedrooms and two baths. The center hall floor plan has a living room with fireplace, elegant dining room with built-in china closets, a convenient modern kitchen, and a family room with great expansion possibilities. $112,000

This beautiful Georgian style Colonial home is situated in a country like neighborhood near a panoramic lake. A MESSAGE TO CLIENTS -
PAST, PRESENT & FUTURE

Biggest is not necessarily best! We do not claim to be the biggest office in the Princeton area. We do claim that our office can offer you the best possible service - including widespread, selective advertising - when you list with us.
If you do not want your property handled on a "mass production-assembly line" basis, but do want individual personal and concentrated service, we are delighted to represent you to the best of our proven ability!
